Talks on Miner break off

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Because of "small but vocal" neighborhood opposition, officials of Roosevelt University in Chicago have ended negotiations to lease Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights as a branch campus.

Officials in Aptakisic Dist. 102 in Vernon Township now are interested in leasing 10 to 18 classrooms in the school at 1101 E. Miner to ease their enrollment growth problems, Supt. Donald Strong of Arlington Heights Dist. 25 said Thursday.

Strong told the Dist. 25 Board of Education Thursday that Roosevelt officials still are interested in an Arlington Heights campus. He said operating a small program at North School, 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd., may be an alternative for Roosevelt to explore.

The board gave Strong the go-ahead to negotiate with both Roosevelt and Dist. 102, saying both plans are in keeping with district policy of using closed schools in ways compatible with surrounding neighborhoods and also bring income into the district.

THE BOARD voted last month to close Miner in June because of declining enrollment and financial problems. At that point, Roosevelt officials were the only ones interested in leasing the 20-year-old school. But area residents strenuously objected, saying a branch campus at the junior high would create tremendous traffic and safety problems for the neighborhood.

"It is with some regret that I have heard of a small but vocal opposition to our plan to offer educational programs at the university level in the junior high school which your board has decided to close," Roosevelt Pres. Rolf A. Weil wrote in a letter to Dist. 25 Board Pres. Nicholas Raino.

"Although we firmly believe that the program we had discussed with Supt. (Donald) Strong and your board would be of great service to the community, we certainly do not wish to offer such a program in an atmosphere which might be divisive," Weil wrote.

The directors of the central citizens coalition which mounted the opposition to Roosevelt's locating at Miner Thursday applauded Weil's decision and welcomed Dist. 102's interest in the school.

"A junior high program in a junior high school is the best we can hope for," director Carole Pelzner said.

STILL INTERESTED in locating in Arlington Heights, however, university officials plan to stay in touch with Dist. 25 and could end up renting North School, Strong said.

"North is in a commercial, central downtown location and a lot of the traffic question raised in the Miner area will be eliminated," he said.

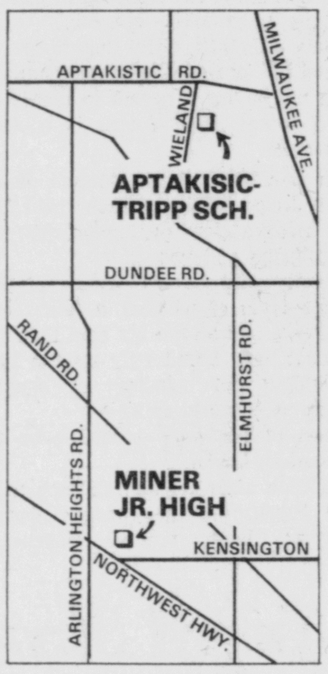

Board members agreed that if a "proper location" could be found for Roosevelt's branch campus, the university would be a positive addition to the community.

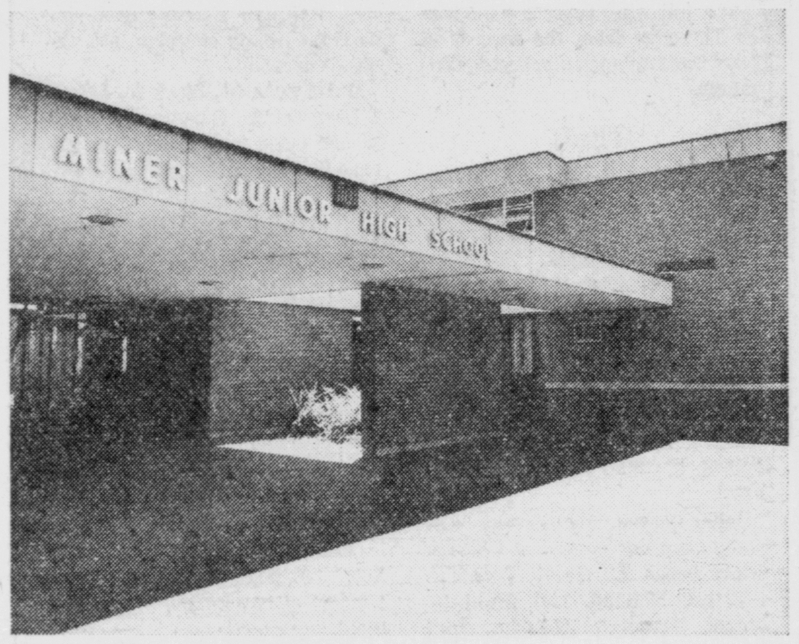

In assessing whether a location is a proper one, board member Edith Jolly said she hopes consideration will be given to more than the university's potential impact on traffic, parking, noise and air — the criteria studied by the Arlington Heights Environmental Control Commission. "Social, cultural, academic and intellectual impact also are part of the environment and should be considered," she said.

North was closed in June 1976 and is leased to the Northwest Opportunities Center, a social service agency providing food assistance, housing, employment and legal counseling.

If Roosevelt were to lease North, the opportunities center could possibly share Miner with Dist. 102's junior high school classes, but this would require a zoning variance from the Arlington Heights Village Board, Strong LOCAL OPPOSITION has convinced Chicago-based Roosevelt University to stop negotiating to lease Miner Junior High School as a branch campus. But university officials are still interested in a campus here.

Hijacker kills self

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bank robbery suspect Thomas Michael Hannan, who hijacked an airliner in an effort to free from jail another suspect said to be his homosexual lover, released his hostages unharmed late Thursday night but shot himself to death rather than surrender.

Hannan, 29, ignored the pleas of his attorney, who went aboard the Frontier Airlines plane after the passengers left, and shot himself once in the chest.

"He was in the back of the plane sitting down in one of the seats," said James Dunn, agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office. "There was no scuffle at all. He just sat down and pulled the trigger."

HANNAN HAD hijacked the Boeing 737 twin-engine jet at Grand Island, Neb., his hometown, early Thursday morning and had demanded the release from an Atlanta jail of George David Stewart, 29, along with $3 million and two parachutes, apparently to be used in some sort of daring in-flight escape.

Stewart was being held on charges of robbing a National Bank of Georgia branch with Hannan, who had been released on bond. Sgt. James Gill of the Mobile, Ala., police department said the two men had traveled the country together and "both admitted to having homosexual relations."

The plane initially carried 30 passengers and a crew of four, but Hannan released all of the women and children, as well as two men, one a heart patient, when the craft stopped to refuel in Kansas City.

He released stewardesses Diane Lord and Bobbie Karr after the plane had been parked on an Atlanta runway about six hours. At that time "we inferred he was ready to kill the hostages," Dunn said.

BUT, AFTER a plea from Stewart — who was flown by helicopter to the airport — and the personal effort of his attorney, J. Roger Thompson, who went aboard the plane, Hannan released the remaining 11 passengers unharmed.

THOMAS HANNAN

The pilot and copilot remained on board while Thompson, who represented Hannan and Stewart in the bank robbery case, tried to talk Hannan into surrendering.

"I want to say that Mr. Thompson

Berkowitz tells court he was possessed by demons

NEW YORK (UPI) — A crowded courtroom Thursday heard David Berkowitz, accused of being the .44-caliber killer known as "Son of Sam," say he was possessed "by howling demons" and ask to be put away forever so he will not kill again.

"If they had the death penalty, I'd take that too," the 24-year-old former postal worker said in a tape recording played at a hearing to determine whether he is competent to stand trial for the murder of the sixth and last Son of Sam victim.

The tape, which reporters were allowed to record, was of conversations between Berkowitz and Dr. Daniel Schwarta, the court-appointed psychiatrist who already has found Berkowitz "paranoid" and unable to participate in his own defense.

BROOKLYN Dist. Atty. Eugene Gold challenged that finding and won permission to have Berkowitz examined by another psychiatrist. The hearings are expected to last at least two days.

Supreme Court Justice John Starkey, who presided over the hearing at the psychiatric hospital where Berkowitz has been a prisoner since Aug. 10, must make a legal determination on the suspect's fitness to stand trial

Suburban politicians band together, organize caucus

Suburban residents may have a stronger voice in the U.S. Congress as the result of a suburban caucus being organized on Capitol Hill to promote common interests of suburbanites.

Representatives of more than 30 members of Congress gathered Thursday to begin organizing the caucus, informally called the Crabgrass Brigade, and discuss suburban problems.

Mass transit, better distribution of federal grants and land-use planning were among the problems the Caucus will tackle, said U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, R-4th, one of the group's founders.

Derwinski said suburban problems are often "overshadowed by the traditional problems of urban and rural areas. "The suburban problems are still developing," he said.

Representatives from the offices of both Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, attended the caucus meeting.

MIKVA SAID it is too early to tell if the caucus will be effective in bringing attention to suburban issues. He said there are already caucuses for blacks, Italians, Jews and rural residents, noting that suburban issues have never transcended party divisions.

"I think a lot of people associate the tremendous growth of the suburbs

Saving woman from train makes him an instant hero

by KEN VANDERBEEK

It started just like any other Thursday morning rush hour.

Hundreds of commuters stood near the Palatine train station waiting for the 7:21 to Chicago.

Some stood reading newspapers, others stood alone or in groups. Some scurried to purchase a last-minute ticket.

GERRY PAPE WAS one of those standing alone, his briefcase at his side, full of reports for AT&T Long Lines in Chicago where he works.

Soon the train approached. Pape could see its familiar light in the distance, growing larger.

Suddenly he heard footsteps behind him. He turned and saw a woman running for the train.

But she ran too fast, and she slipped and fell onto the tracks. The train was only 50 feet away; too close to even attempt to brake.

There was no time to think. Pape lunged forward and grabbed her coat and an arm and pulled her away from the oncoming locomotive. She fell on top of him as the Chicago & North Western Ry. commuter train sped by.

"It all happened so fast," Pape, 24, of 935 Countryside Dr., Palatine, said. "The train stopped and the engineer jumped out and told me he thought she was a goner."

PAPE HAD SAVED the woman's life, but apparently she was so shaken she never told him her name.

"The only thing she said was, 'What am I gonna do?' " Pape said. "She was dirty and I guess she was going home. She probably thought she was too much of a mess to go to Chicago."

PAPE BECAME an instant hero. When he entered the train, passengers asked him for his business card. When he got to his office, his boss, somehow hearing the news, congratulated him for the rescue.

It seemed everyone around Pape was rejoicing over his heroics except the hero himself. Pape is a modest hero.

"A gentleman came up to me on the train and patted me on the back," Pape said. "He said, 'You saved her, you saved her.' I just didn't know how to react at first, nor do I now. I just did what had to be done.

"I remember she had heels and she couldn't get up," he said. "She knew she was in trouble, but she couldn't do anything about it.

"THE TRAIN was so close when she fell that I'm amazed she ever tried to get across the platform at all. When she fell she must have seen me, because when I ran forward she reached for me."

Pape said when he arrived at work he called his wife, Deborah, 25, to tell her what had happened.

"Gerry described it like it had been his duty to save the girl," Mrs. Pape said. "He told me he didn't feel like a hero. But I went into hysterics because I was only glad he and the girl were OK."

At the end of the day Mrs. Pape gave her husband a bigger hug than usual, but he continued to try to play down the morning episode.

"Maybe I'll be able to see the girl tomorrow, before we go to Chicago," he said. "I'd like to know if she's doing OK."

Fetuses display charges dropped in Lake County

Charges of illegally transporting dead bodies were dropped Thursday against a Florida man who exhibited human fetuses last summer at the Lake County Fair in Grayslake.

Chris M. Christ, 29, of Gibsonton, Fla., was arrested after his sideshow was brought to the attention of Robert Babcox, Lake County coroner.

Babcox had the show shut down and seized the fetuses. Christ was charged with not having a permit to transport dead bodies. The charge is a misdemeanor.

IN DISMISSING the charges, Associate Judge William Homer said the law made a clear distinction between dead bodies and fetuses.

Homer said he was aware of the larger issue of whether a fetus constitutes a human life but said that his decision was based only on the law forbidding the transport of human bodies without a permit.

The fetuses were turned over to Babcox for burial.

Defense attorney Ray Carlson said that because of the charges placed against Christ, similar sideshows have been stopped nationwide. He said he doubted they would resume.

BABCOX SAID afterwards that he disagreed with the ruling.

"I feel that fetuses are bodies, some of them are full term and some of them are less. Medically, if a fetus is four to five centimeters long, it is considered a body," he said. "I still know you can't own or possess a human body or fetus."

Nevertheless, Babcox said he accomplished what he had wanted to do — close the show.

Legislation has been introduced to make such shows clearly illegal in Illinois, he said.

Christ said later that the matter had been blown out of proportion and that he was only involved in show business.

Christ said he had purchased the fetuses — preserved in formaldehyde in 19 glass bottles — several years ago from two sideshow operators.

He added that he will probably return to the Lake County fair next summer with his other exhibits — a wax museum and a live freak show.

Lynyrd Skynyrd band's plane crashes in Miss.

GILLSBURG Miss. (UPI) — A twin-engine prop plane carrying 25 persons, including the popular Southern rock band Lynyrd Skynyrd group, crashed Thursday night in a heavily forested area of tall pine trees in southwest Mississippi.

Federal and state authorities said there were "some" fatalities and "some" survivors. It was not know whether any band members were among the victims.

There were unconfirmed reports that two foreign bands appearing during a tour with Lynyrd Skynyrd also were on board the plane.

MRS. LOUISE BRUMFIELD of Gillsburg, who lives about four miles from the crash scene, said, "We were all in the house and heard a loud roar and racket. We looked out and could tell the plane was flying low but we didn't think it was in distress. But it was flying unusually low."

A Mississippi Highway Patrol spokesman said "we have fatalities and we have injured" in Thursday night's crash.

FAA spokesman Jerry Lavey in Washington, D.C., said he received a report of "multiple fatalities and some survivors" in the crash of a Convair 240.

HE SAID the plane was traveling from Greenville, S.C., to Baton Rouge, La., for a concert tonight when it crashed two miles northeast of Gillsburg, a small town on the Louisiana-Mississippi border.

A spokesman in New York City for SIR Productions, which handles the band, said all occupants of the plane aside from the crew were connected with Lynyrd Skynyrd or its members.

U.S. rules hike hospital costs: official

by DAVE IBATA

Government regulations are kicking hospital expenses skyward, and the consumer is bearing the brunt of rising health care costs, an official at Lutheran General Hospital said Thursday.

F. William Kraft, vice president of finance at the Park Ridge facility, said hospitals must put the lid on costs passed on to patients.

Kraft spoke at a seminar, "The Anatomy of Hospital Finances," conducted for hospital staffers.

He cited confusing government regulations, unnecessary hospitalizations, inflation and unpaid debts incurred by patients as factors that drive up the cost of health care for consumers.

Kraft cited home care programs and pre-admission testing and reviews by boards of physicians to determine whether a paitent really needs to be hospitalized as measures hospitals can take to save consumers money.

HOWEVER, some costs are beyond the control of the hospital, Kraft said.

For example, he said, a national study showed federal regulations that have increased the number of forms businesses must fill out have cost private industry an extra $20 billion. The government cost to process the forms also is $20 billion, Kraft said.

Citing another example, Kraft said if the minimum wage rises to $3 an hour, a patient can expect to pay an extra $151 for a nine-day stay in a hospital.

A third example, Kraft said, are payments required of hospitals toward Medicaid, Medicare and Blue Cross medical insurance programs, which take 5.6 per cent of Lutheran General's annual earnings.

"THE GOVERNMENT is moving in at a confusing and alarming rate," Kraft said.

Kraft said Lutheran General has raised $430,000 less than anticipated in its budget for routine care for the first quarter of fiscal 1977-78, which covered the period from July 1 to Sept. 30.

Lutheran General anticipated more patients, and thus more revenue, than it received. He said the hospital had expected to receive $10.6 million in revenue, and instead earned $10.2 million.

"Financially, it's a minus because we will have set our prices anticipating what our volume will be," Kraft said.

Yet another factor in hospital costs is the number of persons required to staff a hospital, Kraft said.

"IT TAKES FIVE people to cover one job in a hospital," he said. "There are about three and a fraction employes for each patient in a hospital bed (at Lutheran General)."

Kraft said area hospitals have tried to cut labor costs by pooling nurses and security guards and the services of a collection agency through the North Suburban Assn. of Health Resources. Lutheran General, Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village are members of the association.

Lutheran General has saved on malpractice insurance costs by use of the Multi-Hospital Mutual Insurance Co., a captive insurance firm with 30 hospital accounts nationwide, Kraft said.

Kraft said hospitals have five other methods by which they can cut expenses:

- Recognition by all patients they must pay their hospital bills.
- Supplemental funding by the federal government.
- Reduction in the quality and quantity of care rendered by the hospital.
- Discounted admissions of Medicare patients.
- Bankruptcy.

Hijacking threat is a fact of life for transworld pilot

Mario Vazquez tries not to read about hijacked planes.

He tries not to see the headlines that scream about them. He tries not to listen to television accounts that relate them.

He was on vacation during last week's hijacking of a Lufthansa airliner and he did not hear about it until Wednesday night, two days after West German commandos had ended the five-day ordeal and freed the 86 hostages.

VAZQUEZ TRIES not to pay attention to these things because you cannot work in fear, he says.

He is an international airline pilot.

He is 39 and a captain with Mexicana Airlines, and he has been flying for 18 years. It is all he can remember wanting to do when he was a boy growing up in Mexico City.

Thursday, he paused at O'Hare Airport's international terminal to reflect on the occupational hazards before piloting an afternoon flight out of Chicago.

His flights take him throughout Mexico, the United Staes, North and Central America and the Carribean.

As such, he says the danger of hijacking isn't as great as it seems to be in Europe, where pilots are planning a two-day strike next week to protest the lack of a firm commitment by the United Nations for tight airport security.

"THE WHOLE problem is security at the airports," Vazquez says.

In Europe, security is spotty, he says. Part of the problem is political and he sympathizes with European pilots.

But whether he joins the strike depends on his union, the Mexican Pilots Assn., he says. He will go along with whatever it decides.

There are hazards in any business, Vazquez says.

"You can get killed in the safest profession," he says.

Still, Thursday's events were a reminder that it isn't just Europe. A Frontier Airlines jet was hijacked at Grand Island, Neb., in the United States where security precautions are said to be as tight as anywhere in the world.

One of Vazquez' planes could be hijacked some day. He recognizes that.

IF IT HAPPENED, he would just obey orders, he says. He would do whatever the hijacker tells him. It seems that most of the time there is shooting because someone tried to be a hero, he says.

It is a possibility that stays in the back of his mind.

He tries consciously to keep it there, he says. You cannot be afraid of doing your job.

"I really don't think about it," Vazquez says. "It's a certainty that you are going to die, but nobody believes it. You cannot."

MARIO VAZQUEZ, an international airline pilot, says he tries not to think about the possibility of hijacking that goes along with his job. He explains his attitude this way: "It's a certainty that you are going to die, but nobody believes it. You cannot."

Hostages freed; hijacker kills self

did a heck of a job in this whole thing," Dunn said. "He was mainly responsible for getting those people out of the plane."

Thompson, however, was unsuccessful in getting Hannan to put down his gun.

"Mr. Thompson was talking with the subject aboard the plane, trying to talk him off the aircraft. He was unsuccessful. The subject shot himself one time in the chest and is dead," Dunn said.

An ambulance rushed Hannan to Grady Hospital, where a doctor pronounced him dead on arrival.

THE TENSION at the Atlanta airport extended to Kansas City, where relatives of the remaining hostages awaited anxiously for news in a motel.

FBI agent Ken Teetzen took the word they all were waiting for.

"The hostages have been released," he yelled, and a Frontier Airline official ran down the motel hallway, pounding on doors to announce the news.

Women and children ran from the rooms and for the first time all day they cried publicly.

The hijacking began around 7:30 a.m. CDT Thursday at Grand Island, Neb.

Officials said Hannan pulled a sawed-off shotgun from a bag during a security check and commandeered the jet.

LYLE WURTZ, a high school friend of Hannan who was aboard, talked Hannan into releasing the women and children after the plane refueled at Kansas City.

After releasing them, the hijacker, who also asked for two machine guns, two .45 pistols and two parachutes, still had 11 passengers and a crew of four to back up his demands. Most of the hostages were from Nebraska.

The plane, piloted by Capt. E. J. Curtiss, a veteran of 26 years with the airline, landed in Atlanta at 11:02 a.m. CDT,, and taxied to about a quarter-mile from a cargo terminal, where police had their headquarters.

The FBI negotiator, calling Hannan "Mike," tried to determine what the hijacker would do if Stewart refused to accompany him.

"It's essential we know what your alternatives are . . . many people have to make the decision about Stewart's release," he told Hannan. "Until they get those questions answered they won't be able to make those decisions."

That began the neogtiations which ended almost 10 hours later with the fatal shot.

Club raided twice losing business

A men's club in Palatine Township, raided twice by Cook County Sheriff's Police within four days, is losing business but is not in danger of closing, said a man who said he was the manager of the club.

The Club Renaissance, 2307 Rand Rd., was raided again Tuesday by the vice squad, just four days after another raid last Friday.

"We're not exactly sure what effect they (police raids) will have on our business down the road, but judging by the number of people who have come in this week, I would say we're down a bit," said the manager, who asked not to be identified.

Tuesday, Rose Ann Scardina, 23, of 10829 Mackinaw St., Chicago, was charged with prostitution. The club doorman, David M. Stern, 24, of 9128 Greenlake, near Des Plaines, was charged with keeping a house of prostitution.

THEY ARE SCHEDULED to join two other club employes, Patricia Rogers, 24, of 177 Fremont, Elmhurst and Thomas Dunn, 44, of 8609 Golf Rd., near Des Plaines, in the Niles branch of the Cook County Circuit Court at 1:30 p.m. today. Ms. Rogers and Dunn were arrested Friday on similar charges. All are free on $1,000 bond.

The club was closed Tuesday by sheriff's police while all of its employes were taken to police headquarters in West suburban Maywood for processing.

However, within a matter of hours, the employes who were not charged returned to the club.

Two of the women who were charged with prostitution "are no longer with us," the manager said. The two doormen have not been fired, he said.

The arrests Tuesday, like those Friday, were made by undercover agents who managed to pass for customers despite tight security at the club.

'Top Ford aide involved in payoffs'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former Korean CIA agent testified Thursday that he was told a top Ford White House official was involved in Korea's Washington payoff operation, but House ethics counsel Leon Jaworski stopped the witness from naming the man.

At a dramatic moment in the second day of congressional testimony by former agent Kim Sang Keun, Jaworski ruled that the House Ethics Committee has no brief to go after anyone but members of Congress.

The reference to a Ford White House aid came during the second day of ethics panel hearings into alleged Korean bribery schemes.

REP. BRUCE CAPUTO, R-N.Y., was questioning Kim on his no-names allegations that "an assistant to the President," "a high official of Congress" and "a senator" may have been somehow involved in the scandal.

Kim, a defected CIA Washington agent who says he was a go-between in the payoff operation, had testified that he heard about those three officials in 1975 from Hancho Kim, a Korean-born Washington businessman indicted as a paymaster in the Capitol Hill lobbying effort.

Although the committee has instructed witnesses not to mention the names of anyone they accuse of wrongdoing, Caputo asked whether Hancho Kim had disclosed the identity of the presidential assistant.

"It took place when President Ford was in the White House," Kim Sang Tuen replied.

CAPUTO THEN stated that Ford had had only one aide with the exact title "assistant to the president" — the title mentioned in the agent's questioning — and asked Kim if he knew who that aide was.

Before he could respond, committee chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., intervened and asked Jaworski, the panel's special counsel, to rule on whether that question should be answered.

Jaworski said the congressional resolution authorizing the investigation dealt only with alleged efforts to influence congressmen, and he believed the information requested was "not within the scope" of committee jurisdiction.

Caputo then asked whether Hancho Kim had mentioned any other contacts he had at the White House.

Again Jaworski, acting at Flynt's request, ruled the question out of order.

Official records indicate that, during Ford's presidency, three men at various times held the title "assistant to the President," although others had titles of assistant to the President for various areas. They were Henry Kissinger, who specialized in national security affairs; and Donald Rumsfeld and Richard B. Cheney, who functioned as White House chiefs of staff.

SST jetliner comes within acceptable noise limits

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Concorde SST jetliner Thursday passed its first test to determine if it can take off from New York's Kennedy Airport within acceptable sound limits.

Authorities said the Anglo-French supersonic jetliner, which made a perfect maiden landing in New York on Wednesday, did not trigger noise monitoring equipment set up to record any noise levels above 105 perceived noise decibels.

The established noise limit at Kennedy is 112 pnd's.

To the human ear, the takeoff noise was much like the other craft at Kennedy during takeoff.

After takeoff, pilot Bryan Walpole banked the aircraft 25 degrees to the left so the brunt of the engine noise would come over Jamaica Bay instead of populated Long Island communities.

But the Concorde noise was picked up in the Rockaway and Howard Beach sections of Queens.

The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates Kennedy Airport, said the noise did not register on its machine atop a telephone poll in Howard Beach.

British Airways said its measuring device put the noise at 106 perceived noise decibels. A spokesman for the airline, said a Boeing 707 that took off from Runway 31-L moments before the Concorde was measured at 111 pnd's.

Berkowitz tells court he was possessed for the murder of Stacy Moskowitz, the last victim.

Berkowitz also faces murder charges — and, presumably, further competency hearings — in the Bronx and Queens. In all Son of Sam killed six persons and wounded seven in his year-long series of ambush attacks.

Speaking to Schwartz on the tape, Berkowitz said he wanted "to tell the world about Sam," referring to his Yonkers, N. Y. neighbor Sam Carr whom he says tormented him to kill his female victims "because he wants blood. He wanted them for sex."

Saying he was possessed "by howling demons,"Berkowitz told Schwartz, "I'm the Son of Sam. It's not me. They used me. I was their tool. I want to be David Berkowitz only."

"I KNOW IN MY heart I'm a good person. My conscience doesn't bother me. I didn't hate these people (the victims). Sam did it through me for blood."

Berkowitz said that if he should ever go to trial, he would tell the judge, "You can send me wherever you want, lock the door and throw away the key. It's not a loss to myself as long as I have peace of mind. I want the maximum penalty."

For the most part, Berkowitz sat silently, occasionally turning to reporters and nodding his head, smiling. But twice during Schwartz' testimony, he spoke out to correct the psychiatrist.

When the doctor said Berkowitz seemed upset at the barking of the Carr's dog, the suspect quietly said, "It was not a dog." Later, when Schwartz said Berkowitz suffered delusions, Berkowitz called out, "there is only one problem, doctor. They're not delusions."

Swell in ridership causes NORTRAN problems

Buses in the suburbs are filling up with riders, and that is causing some unexpected problems for the North Suburban Mass Transit District.

"Primarily, the problem is we have reached capacity on rush hour buses," said Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTRAN. "The buses fill up and sometimes even pass people on the street."

DiJohn said he is pleased with the increased ridership, but said it has caught NORTRAN off-guard.

DiJOHN SAID the problem is worst in the eastern part of the transit district, particularly on the Milwaukee, Touhy and Crawford avenue routes. He said, however, that buses in the Northwest suburbs also are filling up a little too fast.

When asked about the Route 690 from Buffalo Grove to Arlington Heights, he said "I know there are standees on the route and they would like to have a larger bus." The same is true of the Des Plaines to Woodfield Route 209, he said.

But NORTRAN doesn't have larger buses because no one believed the service demand would grow so quickly in the suburbs. All Nortran buses, including those purchased by the Regional Transportation Authority, are 35 foot buses instead of the larger 40 foot size.

"No one had thought 40 footers would be needed in the suburban area," diJohn said. NORTRAN has asked the RTA to amend its 1978 capital purchase program to include 40 foot buses, he said.

NORTRAN'S RIDERSHIP has been increasing rapidly, astonishing both NORTRAN and RTA officials. For example, just after school began a year ago, the buses were carrying about 13,000 passengers a day. This year the figure was up to 20,000 a day just after school began, representing a 54 per cent increase.

"Since then we have had a couple of 22,000 days and we are averaging 21,700 a day," DiJohn said. "And two weeks ago, 21,000 was our all-time record."

DiJohn said he couldn't pinpoint a single factor to explain the increased ridership.

"It's many things," he said. "It's the universal transfer. It's the new buses running on time. It is all our friendly drivers. It is the RTA advertising. It is the timetables and the new system map. It is a series of about a dozen things that have been happening all at once."

NORTRAN HAS asked the RTA for 19 new buses to help reduce the overcrowding. Without the new buses, DiJohn said future growth will be inhibited.

DiJohn said the RTA had been planning to provide buses for new service, rather than having to expand existing service. As a result, no buses are available now.

"They have two grants for 100 buses each," DiJohn said. "We are slated to get some of those buses, not not before next July."

In the meantime, the RTA will work with NORTRAN to arrange better scheduling so that more buses will be available during the peak demand.

Mayor Richard J. Daley left a gross estate of $308,206 when he died last Decembr, an inheritance tax return filed in Circuit Court Thursday shows. The return shows the largest portion of Daley's holdings consisted of his home in Chicago's Bridgeport neighborhood and his summer home in Grand Beach, Mich. The Bridgeport home has a market value of $45,000, according to the return prepared by his sons, Richard and Michael, both lawyers. The 11-acre beachfront Grand Beach, Mich., estate is worth $125,000, the return said.

Also, Daley left $67,000 in life insurance policies and $54,623 in bonds. Except for a $1,000 State of Israel bond, all of the bonds were issued by the United States government. Daley's single stockholding was 40 shares in Lakefront Realty Corp., worth $440. The firm owned the building at 850 N. Lake Shore Drive that housed the Lake Shore Club. Daley had been a member of the club.

Other holdings included a one-year Farmer's Home Administration participation certificate worth $6,000, plus accrued interest of $374. He also had $5,863 in checking accounts at three banks and personal effects worth $1,000, the return said. Daley left his entire estate to his widow, Eleanor, who also was named executor.

RTA to get $4.6 million

A judge Thursday approved a $4.6 million state payment to the Regional Transit Authority because of a lawsuit in which the RTA charged it failed to receive its full share of state sales taxes. Cook County Circuit Court Judge Arthur L. Dunne approved the settlement after ruling the RTA had been shortchanged. Part of the problem was due to changes in the mechanics of collecting the sales taxes. The state earlier this year agreed to turn over to the RTA $3.4 million for the same reason. Attorneys for the RTA and the state told Dunne they did not expect to find any further shortchanges.

'Maid was at fire scene'

A nurse's aide at the Wincrest Nursing and Rest Home told a jury Thursday she left maid Denise Watson alone in a room at the home for a few minutes and found the room in flames when she returned. Miss Watson, 22, is on trial in Cook County Circuit Court, charged with setting a fire at the nursing home on Jan. 30, 1976, that killed 23 elderly residents. She is also charged with murder. The nurse's aide, Annie Green, said she was in room 306 with Miss Watson only minutes before the fire broke out. Mrs. Green told the jury she left Miss Watson alone in the room while she went to the first floor laundry room to get towels.

Lawmaker wants chair for pushers

State Rep. Harry Leinenweber, R-Joliet, Thursday said he plans to introduce a bill to broaden the use of the electric chair to include certain repeat drug pushers or those who direct a drug ring. Leinenweber said other penalties have not been effective in stopping hard drug pushers or drug ringleaders. He said the bill would affect repeat pushers involved in the sale of heroin or morphine, but he said he may add other narcotic drugs during the upcoming legislative session.

11 injured in 4 accidents in fog

At least 11 persons were injured in four separate accidents within minutes of each other Thursday on a fog-covered section of I-80 just west of Spring Valley, authorities said. State police said traffic in both directions of the expressway was halted several hours while work crews cleaned up the wreckage which involved 19 vehicles, four of which were semi-trailer trucks. The accidents occurred on each side of the median strip dividing the expressway. The location was a low-lying area which frequently has heavy fog. It was the same spot where a woman was killed last week during a six-car pileup.

with the 1950s and 1960s," Mikva said. "So it is pretty easy to overlook the fact that there has been a 40 per cent increase in suburban population since 1970."

Organized by eight congressmen, the caucus met for the first time last week. In a letter to colleagues, the original eight said that about half the country's population — 108 million people — now live in suburbs.

Derwinski said past efforts to organize the suburbs have centered on a special issue, and therefore have had no lasting impact. He said the eight organizers of the caucus "just kicked the idea around for a while and it finally gelled."

FOURTEEN congressmen and representatives of more than 16 others attended the meeting. Derwinski said that more than 70 congressmen could qualify for membership in the caucus, and he said a concerted effort is being made to contact those not involved.

In Illinois, those eligible include Crane and Mikva as well as Republicans Henry Hyde, Robert McClory and John Erlenborn from the Chicago area, and Democrats Martin Russo of the Chicago area and Melvin Price from suburban St. Louis.

Derwinski said the caucus may not succeed in focusing attention on suburban issues, but will provide a forum for suburbanites to discuss common problems.

"At least we are communicating well," he said. "We are discovering a mutuality of interest."

Ex-tenants cite complex in complaints on deposits

by BILL HILL

Two complaints have been filed against an Arlington Heights apartment complex over its policies regarding the return of security deposits.

The complaints against the Brandenberry Park East apartments, 2424 E. Oakton St., have been filed with the consumer fraud and protection division of the Illinois Attorney General's Office.

One complaint filed in September by Fay Bruhnke, 550 N. Walnut Ave., Arlington Heights, stems from the managers at Brandenberry withholding all but $1 of Mrs. Bruhnke's $330 security deposit after she moved in July.

The other complaint was filed Oct. 10 by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Passarella, 101 Heather Ct., Rolling Meadows, who received only $100 of their $385 security deposit after they left Brandenberry in July.

THE COMPLAINTS object to the damage charges levied by Brandenberry but also allege that the apartments' managers violated state statutes regarding the use of security deposits to compensate for alleged damages in the apartments.

State law requires that landlords notify tenants within 30 days after the expiration of their leases if portions of their security deposits will be withheld. The landlords also must provide the tenants with an itemized list of damages and receipts showing the costs of repairs.

Attorneys for Brandenberry said Wednesday they have not met "the letter of the law," but have complied with the "intent" of the law. Ron Belmonte and Berry Burke said they are confident the managers of Brandenberry, Joe and Maxine Iacovo, have justifiable reasons for withholding the large portions of the security deposits.

"I DON'T THINK there was an intentional attempt to out and out take money from people. They only charge when damage is severe," Belmonte said.

Mr. and Mrs. Iacovo were unavailable for comment, but Belmonte said he knows of no other complaints regarding security deposits in the past 3½ months.

If the attorney general's office does not accept her case, Mrs. Bruhnke said she will take her complaint into small claims court.

"I was stunned when I got the check for $1," she said. "I really left the apartment in better condition then when I moved in. It was my home, my castle, and I took good care of it."

The inspection sheet for her apartment, however, lists urine odors, animal stains, animal scratches, torn patio screens, knife cuts in the kitchen counter and small chips in the bathtub. The bulk of the charges levied aganst Mrs. Bruhnke was $204 for the replacement of carpeting.

BELMONTE SAID IT cost $612 to replace the carpet and $408 was deducted as depreciation.

"It had to be replaced," he said. "The odor was far beyond reason of turning that apartment over to a new tenant."

Ms. Bruhnke, who lived at Brandenberry for two years, said there was no odor and no animal stains on the carpet. She said there was a dog in her apartment "only a few days" while her son was staying there in 1976.

Her complaint alleges that Brandenberry "seems to be replacing all vacated apartments with shag carpeting."

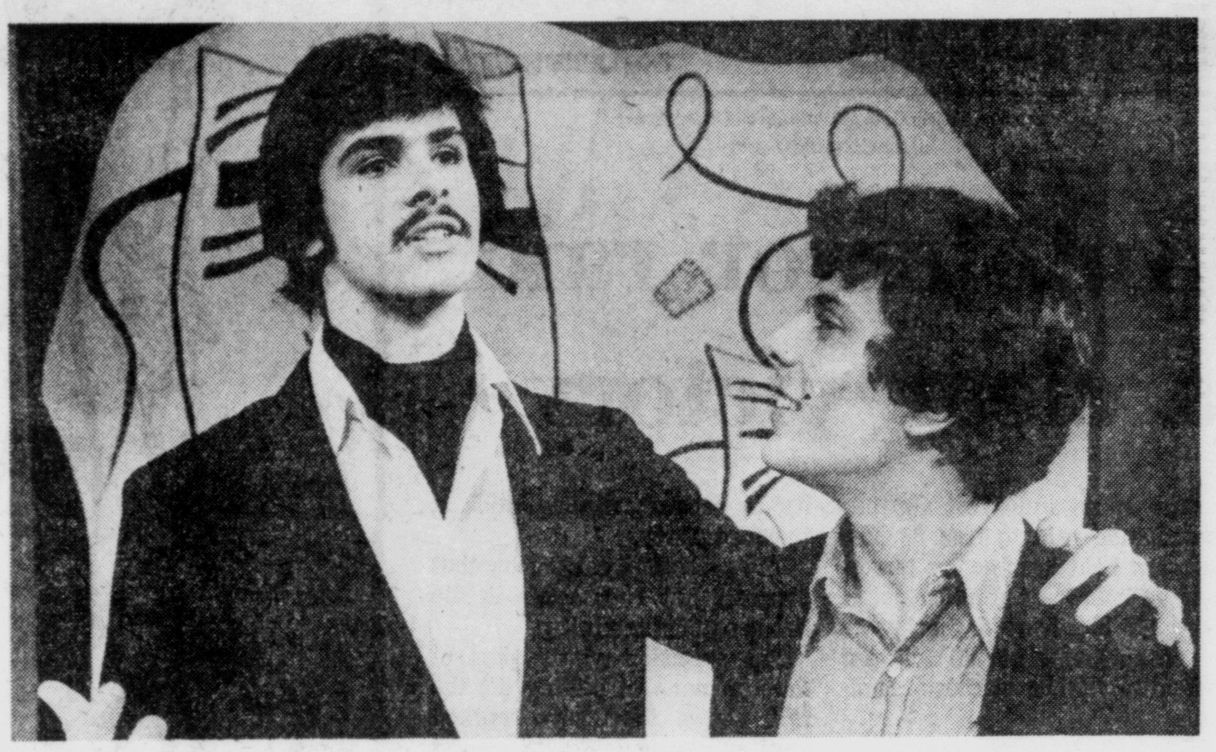

Brandenberry's charges for damages in the Passarellas' apartment included animal scratches, missing light bulbs, missing curtain rods, patched patio screen, knife marks in the counter top, decals in bathtub, holes in doors, wallpaper on walls and carpet cleaning.

THE PASSARELLAS, who lived at Brandenberry for seven years, insist they had permission to put up the wallpaper, that the carpet reflected normal wear and that most of the damages cited did not exist when they moved out or were there when they moved in.

Brandenberry's failure to provide an itemized list of damages and receipts for repairs within 30 days violates state statutes and their lease agreement, the Passarellas' complaint charges.

The list of charges was not sent to them until 64 days after they moved, the Passarellas said.

"I think it's an out and out fraud. I think they're using my money to keep up the complex. They've just gone too far this time," Passarella said.

Woman charged in car accident

A Buffalo Grove woman was charged Thursday with three traffic violations in connection with a head-on crash at Hintz Road and Windsor Drive in Arlington Heights.

Diane Djfarian, 27, of 720 Checker Rd., Buffalo Grove, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving, and driving on the wrong side of the road in the accident Wednesday in which three persons in another car were injured, two of them seriously.

Ms. Djfarian crossed over the center line on Hintz Road and struck the other car, police said. She walked away from the accident uninjured.

JULIE MARTIN, 54, of 1441 N. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, and her granddaughter, Stacey Martin, 8, of 950 Elizabeth Dr., Wheeling, were listed in serious condition Thursday night in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Martin sustained multiple fractures and her granddaughter suffered a fractured skull, police said.

The injured were riding in a car driven by Mrs. Martin's daughter, Sheila Martin, 17, also of the Evergreen Avenue address, who was listed in good condition Thursday in the hospital.

Ms. Djfarian was released on $1,000 bond. She is to appear at 9 a.m. Dec. 2 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Peters cited for housing violations

An Arlington Heights landowner faces $22,000 in fines for building and housing violations for a house at 104 N. Pine Ave.

Judge Nicholas Pomaro of the Cook County Circuit Court said he will sentence John Peters, 502 N. Stratford Rd., Arlington Heights, Nov. 17 and the fine will depend on what improvements are made to the property before the court date.

After describing each of the 22 violations issued to Peters by Arlington Heights building inspectors, Village Prosecutor Ernest Blomquist asked for the maximum fine of $1,000 for each count.

Pomaro said he could not accept Peters' arguments that he was not aware of the violations because he has a real estate office next door.

"I'D HATE BEING the next door neighbor of that property. It's a danger to the community," Pomaro said.

Neighbors and tenants of the house at 104 N. Pine Ave. testified to the dilapidated conditions of the building.

Pomaro said the four men living in the house should move by Nov. 17 and the garage on the property must be torn down within a week.

The violations cited by village inspectors included unsafe stairs, broken windows, torn screens, rubbish strewn about the site, leaking ceilings, broken bathroom fixtures, rotting floors, holes in the ceilings and walls, unsafe wiring and faulty plumbing.

"There's no way I could ask for less than the maximum penalties considering the history of the case. We've been wrangling with him (Peters) for three years," Blomquist said.

"This isn't a money-making project for the village. We just want compliance and compensation for the costs to the village. It will also serve as notice that we're going to demand that landowners keep their property up to neighborhood standards," Blomquist said.

Teens' stink bomb clears theater

More than 200 persons were evacuated from the Randhurst Theatre in Mount Prospect Thursday night when two juveniles set off a stink bomb, police said.

The pungent, acrid smell, which resembled spoiled cheese, caused dizziness and mild nausea in some persons, but probably was not harmful, said Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Officer Paul Watkins. He said the fumes probably were caused by a mixture of acids.

The theater was closed after the incident and the audience was given its money back. It is expected to reopen tonight.

The stink bomb went off about 45 minutes into the film "Oh, God," starring George Burns. The evacuation was orderly and no injuries were reported.

MIKE CAULFIELD, 17, Mount Prospect, discovered the chemical. He said he came back from the lobby, smelled the fumes and noticed the floor was wet. He looked closer at the floor and found a bottle cap upside down, filled with a yellowish liquid. He picked it up and carried it outside.

He returned and found another one, which he also removed, and then he found two empty plastic bottles.

"The manager and an usher came and tried to mop it up," he said. "As soon as the water hit the stuff, the smoke started to billow up from the floor."

Two boys, about 16 or 17 years old, are believed responsible for releasing the chemical. They still are being sought.

Police said witnesses provided them with a detailed description of the pair.

The center was unable to obtain such a variance in July when officials wanted to move from North to Wilson School, 15 E. Palatine Rd.

After hearing complaints from residents that the proposed move would cause traffic problems and safety hazards in the primarily residential area, the village board denied the center's request for a zoning variance.

Supt. Harold Roggendorf of Aptakisic Dist. 102 earlier Thursday said his district would be interested in space in any school, but that a junior high would be prtferable because junior high students would be bused to the rented classrooms.

DIST. 102 currently has 430 students and is at capacity in its single school, Aptakisic-Tripp on Weiland Road, Roggendorf said.

"The board has estimated that in three to four years we will grow to 1,200 to 1,300 students," he said, and it will take at least two years for a new school to be built.

Roggendorf said Dist. 102 will need to rent additional space by September, and will need that space for at least two years.

The board has tentatively planned to bus two sections each of sixth, seventh and eighth graders, about 150 students, he said, adding that the board's only other alternative is to have the Dist. 102 students attend their present school on double shifts.

Roggendorf said it is about an 8-mile drive from Aptakisic-Tripp to Miner, and he expects a bus ride in morning traffic to take about 25 to 30 minutes.

Dist. 102 has contacted one other school district about renting space, Roggendorf said, but he declined to name that district.

"I think it (renting space) is a wise thing thing to do," Roggendorf said.

"The mileage is not that great, and we bus all our students anyway. It would just mean that junior high students would have a little longer day."

As another alternative, the board Thursday directed administrators to study is the Stonegate Assn. recommendation the district move students from Windsor School to Miner.

The move would mean a bigger gym offering greater flexibility for physical education and more space for PTA fund-raising events, evening community activities, as well as opportunities for enrichment programs in science, art, music and drama, availability of the inner court for isolation play by younger children and a permanent lunch room facility, John Barrett, association vice president, told the board.

Adventures of your Garbageman

Please Don't "Help" Our Men

Some householders, when on the scene, like to help our men load the truck. That's nice of them, and we appreciate the good will gesture — but we wish they wouldn't, for their personal safety.

It doesn't happen often — but sometimes, when the compacting blade comes down to squeeze the refuse and pack it into the truck body, a piece of chopped-off debris can "fly into space" and cause injury.

Our men are alert to this, which is why they try to keep bystanders, including children, out of range during compacting. Despite their habitual caution, however, recently one driver was struck in the face by a piece of timber, causing a deep gash in his cheek.

That's a hazard of their job — but we would rather you didn't run the same risk. So, thanks for your wish to help — but please don't.

Anti-terror raid a clear victory

The successful West German commando raid to free 86 passengers held hostage by terrorists on board a Lufthansa jet in Somalia has bouyed the spirits of peace loving people who are potential victims of these criminals.

Three times in recent months the governments of countries victimized by terrorists have successfully freed hostages through daring raids, thus avoiding paying the terrorists' blackmail. The Israelis showed the way with a daring nighttime raid on Entebbe Airport in Uganda July 4, 1976. Next The Netherlands military blitzed a train and school held by terrorists, freeing those inside. And now the Germans have acted.

In addition, U.S. officials have said this country has the capacity to conduct similar raids if the need arises.

The successful raids show that progress has been made in the battle against terrorism.

The precision on the part of the Germans in pulling off the raid shows they have worked hard on developing anti-terrorist tactics since 1972, when they were caught off guard by Palestinian terrorists at the Munich Olympics.

The West Germans had hoped the games would erase memories of the 1932 Olympics sponsored by the Nazis in the same city. Instead the games were ruined. Germany, the focus of much terrorist activity in Europe, learned from the debacle, however.

The three successful raids also show that anti-terrorist tactics are beginning to catch up with the terrorists. The fanatics who are hatching their plots to seize innocent hostages surely must have second thoughts when they realize their chances for success are greatly diminished.

As heartening as the success of the latest raid, the fact the hijacking of the Lufthansa jet took place at all proves that much remains to be done in providing adequate security for air travelers abroad.

It is that kind of security which will block terrorists' access to their victims and bring an end to terror tactics. Then daring — and dangerous — raids will no longer be needed.

Water meter fight silly

At first glance, it seemed the action by the Village of Carpentersville to cut off the water to the fire department was unthinkable.

After all, what's a fire department without water?

Closer scrutiny of the case, however, makes it clear that what happened was that the village and fire department were involved in one of those stupid inter-governmental disputes that ought to be avoided.

The village cut off the water supply to the fire house — not, certainly, to the fire hydrants the department would use in an emergency — because officials of the Carpentersville and Countryside Fire Protection District had refused to install water meters at their two stations.

The water meters, which cost between $2,000 and $5,000 to buy and install, are required of all the water users in the village as part of a water conservation program.

The water stayed off in the fire station for just one day, and by that time village and fire officials were talking to each other again. The village has now said fire officials have 30 days to install the water meters.

The whole dispute ought to be resolved without any more childish theatrics on either side. The fire department needs water for the same reasons residents need it — cleanliness and convenience. And Carpentersville has the right to expect all water users to cooperate in the water conservation program.

Carpentersville Village Mgr. George Shaw says he hopes to negotiate the problem. And Fire Chief Richard Paul says he is willing to cooperate with the village.

That sounds like a good start. Let's hope we don't hear any more problems with the fire department's water, just word that the problem has been resolved.

The dirty rat! Cop flees, calls for reinforcements

Jim Bishop

The young woman pleaded for help. There was a rat in her apartment. The dispatcher sent officer Steve Briggs. When he arrived, two women were standing on chairs. "In the bathroom," they whispered.

Briggs was young and brave. He was armed with a gun and a nightstick. The rat had teeth. In a bathroom, where there is no room to run or dodge, the rodent has an advantage. Briggs peered inside, stepped into the bathroom, hefted his club, and found his quarry.

The rat was outgunned. If it crouched in a corner it could get killed. So it charged. Officer Briggs jumped up onto a sink. He slashed the air with his nightstick. The rat countered by hopping onto a towel rack.

BRIGGS TOOK HIS best shot. He missed the rat but broke his club. The officer held onto the stub. The rat crouched. It realized that the cop was not playing friendly games. It jumped high and landed on the mirror next to Briggs' face.

The officer was no fool. There is an old military maneuver called let's-get-the-hell-out-of-here, so Briggs jumped away, across the bathtub into a wall. Both elbows were badly bruised.

Briggs squeezed through the door, slammed it, and hurried by the women, still heroically standing on chairs clutching their skirts. He hurried to his car and demanded back-up assistance.

The dispatcher sent officer Les Mellot, a K-9 officer with a German shepherd in his car. Briggs was panting, perspiring and in pain. Mellot hurried in with the dog. "Send him in the bathroom," said Briggs, pointing to the dog. "There's a rat in there."

MELLOT PETTED HIS dog. "Hell no," he said. "I don't want him to get rabies." The dog remained in the living room with the ladies. Mellot and Briggs got into the bathroom. Mellot carried a 36-inch riot stick.

The rat ran up the stick. Mellot yelled and dropped it. Briggs slashed with the stub of his nightstick. The two cops cornered the rat, which was exhausted, and flogged it to death.

Doug Delp, a good reporter, got the story. The police report, written by Briggs, read like this:

"The undersigned, while equipped with a nightstick, entered the bathroom. At this time the rodent was observed and the undersigned proceeded to attempt to destroy it.

"HOWEVER, during the course of the officer's action, the animal was able to out-maneuver the undersigned. At one point, the rodent approached this officer in a very quick manner . . . In an attempt to avoid the possibility of being bitten, the undersigned quickly jumped up on to the bathroom sink.

"Meanwhile, the rat managed to jump onto a towel rack directly across from the undersigned, during which time the officer struck at the animal; as a result broke his nightstick.

"Then in an attempt to escape the possibility of the rat then leaping on this officer's face or shoulders, the undersigned quickly leaned away from the animal, while at the same time attempting to strike it with what remained of the nightstick.

"Unfortunately, this officer lost his balance and fell off the sink and landed against the opposite wall of the bathroom. As a result of the fall, the undersigned struck the wall with both elbows and his head, thus receving bruises to both elbows and as a result of the blow to the head, the undersigned's upper front tooth broke.

"AT THAT POINT, the undersigned requested a back-up contact at the scene in order to supply the undersigned with an additional nightstick in order to continue the battle."

Briggs took what was left of himself and went to Imperial Point Hospital for repairs. He did not complain. It was all in the line of duty. He refrained from taking a shot at the police dog, which sat licking its paws throughout the action.

Briggs told Doug Delp he was thinking about shooting the rat while the battle was going on. "But then I remembered the cop who shot a rat in a bathroom with his .357 magnum and blew the toilet away." . . .

Can brain be boggled by conflict?

by DICK WEST

(The lighter side)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three American scientists have won a Nobel prize for research that purportedly enhances understanding of the human brain.

I suppose congratulations are in order, but one wonders how objective studies of this type are.

The key point to bear in mind is that brain researchers must rely on their own brains to organize and analyze experiments.

IN EFFECT, therefore, the brain has become the first bodily organ to investigate itself. Which puts it right in the middle of a big fat conflict of interest.

When it is making studies of say, the pancreas I'm sure the brain is capable of exercising a large measure of scientific detachment. It records the bad along with the good and lets the chips fall where they may.

But how unbiased can we expect the brain to be when it starts encountering its own blemishes and weaknesses?

Is there not a temptation for the brain to sweep its defects under the rug and dwell exclusively upon its strong points?

OF COURSE THERE is. It is, after all, a human brain and self-deception is a powerful human trait.

In human beings, the capacity for deluding one's self about one's self is virtually unlimited.

Brain researchers may claim there is nothing personal in their experiments. Yet, given the brain's predisposition for boggling and otherwise refusing to face facts, can a researcher's brain be trusted to examine the evidence dispassionately?

I would think not.

FOR HUNDREDS OF eras, human beings took their brains more or less for granted. Then almost overnight the brain began getting more attention than the rest of the body combined.

Note, that most of the findings thus far tend to bolster the brain's reputation as the body's most wonderously efficient complex and vital component part. But is it really all that admirable?

What really happens when the brain, probing itself, starts peering into the dark recesses where something untoward might be lurking?

Suppose for example, it begins getting feedback that indicates the brain is no more important than, say, the tonsils, or possibly the spleen.

COULD THE BRAIN, home base of the ego, be trusted to render a candid, straightforward appraisal of the experimental data?

Well, there's no need belaboring the point further. suffice to say that the brain is likely to do everything it can to see that it remains numero uno.

Obviously, an outside independent opinion of the brain's capability is needed.

Some day, perhaps, the pancreas or some other organ will get smart enough to do the job. Meanwhile, human brain studies have about as much depth as congressional investigations of members of Congress.

Indian Trails library wins support

I wish to comment on The Daily Herald's editorial, on October 17, opposing the proposed Indian Trails Library.

First, the proposed site on Schoenbeck Road would be located very near the geographical center of the library district, not on hazardous thoroughfare such as on McHenry or Dundee roads. The library board has selected the site with the potential growth of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove in mind.

Second, two new libraries would be impractical because of obvious duplication of staff, expensive reference materials, dual book collections, equipment, furnishings, besides the double construction and maintenance costs. I feel two barely adequate libraries could not benefit either community as one top-notch, well staffed, centrally located facility could.

Third, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove homeowners each provide approximately 25 per cent of the tax base for the library district, while business and industry provide the additional 50 per cent tax base. However, the majority of the industry is now located in Wheeling. One central library, built to serve both communities, would be the only fair solution.

The basic problem is a new library is needed now, or even two years ago. Planning for such a facility takes time and this also costs the taxpayers money. The current plans are a culmination of over two years' research. Inflation does not wait for the perfect solution! A facility planned for both communities' maximum growth is wise now and economical in the long run.

We cannot continue to depend on the Arlington Heights Library and the surrounding communities to provide books that our district has the money to purchase, but no place to put.

Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, let's get together, and vote yes on Saturday.

Sandi Magle
Wheeling

THE AMERICAN Association of University Women, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Area Branch, urges all voters to vote Yes for the Indian Trails Library District referendum on Saturday.

Supporting the referendum will provide the necessary facilities desperately needed now and for the future. Our communities should not rely on neighboring taxpayers' generosity in the use of their library facilities. Planning ahead for the potential growth of our communities must be better than hindsight planning in this day of increasing land and building costs.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove
Area Branch of AAUW
Ann Brazeal, President

I MUST TAKE ISSUE with your editorial and political cartoon that appeared in the October 17 Daily Herald.

You took the easy way out by praising the district then burying them with a plan that is economic suicide. You state that the present Indian Trails library facilities are inadequate; that the book shelves are so crowded the librarians will have to take books off the shelves to put up the new ones; that the library officials have done a good job with limited facilities. To all of this I agree wholeheartedly.

What better way to go than to build a new building and expand with the next twenty years in mind. It is better to plan ahead than facing a continual expansion such as our friends in Arlington Heights are faced with just five years after constructing their one and only centrally located library building.

You speak of accessibility to the rapidly growing parts of Buffalo Grove. Since we have mentioned Arlington Heights, and Indian Trails is constantly being compared to the Arlington Heights library, I hope you don't mean to imply that by going south on Arlington Heights Road from Buffalo Grove to the Arlington Heights library is your idea of easy access. Also, if you had taken the time to study the location of the new library in their district, you would have noticed that it is on five acres of ground and is as close as possible to the geographical and population center of Indian Trails district. Land availability is a primary consideration and it is again economically unfeasible to purchase land on the very busy four lane Dundee Road. The accessibility of those from Buffalo Grove will be enhanced by the widening of Arlington Heights Road north of Dundee Road. It is unfortunate that we can no longer afford the luxury of locating our libraries within a bike ride or a walk of our homes.

You speak of the 366 seat auditorium that you say is of doubtful value. What you fail to say is that this room can be divided into three smaller rooms and will be used by the various adult and children programs planned by this library. These rooms will be available for public use. It is also a known fact that school building rooms are rented out sometimes as far as a year in advance for community functions.

If the library were built in stages, the building costs would be exorbitant. The present cost of building is approximately $55 to $60 per square foot. With an overall inflation rate of about 10 per cent to 12 per cent per year, it is not hard to imagine what future building costs would be.

You speak of having separate libraries in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. The costs of building, staffing, and funding two separate entities would appreciably increase the proposed $3.5 million issue. Plus, as the community grows, these two facilities will have to be expanded. The present evaluation takes the community up to the year 1995 and the five acres around the proposed building is sufficient for any future expansion. It is a known fact that the village fathers of Buffalo Grove cannot arrive at a decision to locate the town center. Can you be serious enough to suppose that these same people would make a decision to place a library in the near future to avoid rising construction costs?

I do agree that should the referendum not pass, the library officials should not "make do," but should pursue the issue further in the future.

Carter's slumping popularity may only prove he is doing a good job

by JOSEPH C. HARSCH

According to a recent Harris poll President Carter's public approval rating has dropped below the 50 per cent mark. It stands at 48 positive versus 48 negative. This is down a long way from his April high of 69 per cent positive. It makes disturbing reading for his supporters and joyful news from his political opponents.

But other presidents have sunk lower than 48 per cent of public approval, and lived to recover. Harry Truman was down to 35 per cent on the Gallup poll in December, 1946, and was triumphantly elected in November 1948. He slipped to 23 per cent after he sacked Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1951, and is today one of the most honored of presidents.

The surprising thing really is that Carter's rating hasn't slipped even lower at this particular time. This may not be the end, but it is probably the beginning of an inevitable low point in his administrations. It is inevitable because he has taken on a whole series of tasks which antagonize or alienate several particular and powerful group interests.

IN THE BEGINNING he did not alienate or antagonize because he was dealing with the abstractions of goals and purposes. It is easy, for example, to say you want welfare reform and then set up a special commission, or "task force" or Cabinet committee to study the problem and come up with recommendations. Everyone is pleased. But then it's a different story when the specific recommendations come in and when the attempt to implement begins. Welfare has created huge vested interests and also lobbies which know their way around Capitol Hill.

For his first six months Carter was in the planning and studying phase. He was full of what great things he was going to do, when all the planning and studying was completed. Meanwhile he was walking down Pennsylvania Ave., carrying his own clothes bag off airplanes, cutting down the number of big White House limousines, using smaller hotel rooms — namely, doing all the easy and popular things a president can do while he has little better to do.

But after six months the time had come when he had to begin to take the positive actions to achieve his admirable goals. A balanced budget is an admirable goal. Everyone wants a president to try to balance the budget. But as Carter approached that task he ran into all the vested interests who saw their appropriations for their favorite projects being trimmed.

YOU CAN'T balance the budget without trimming back on funds for the inner cities (which help blacks), on funds for making jobs for the unemployed (which cushion the labor unions from low-wage competition), and from the Defense budget (which fuels both profits for investors and jobs for the trade unions). So budget cutting ran into immediate trouble — and made blacks, union leaders and those with money in military industries all uneasy.

Then he launched his energy bill and inevitably crossed the path of oil, natural gas and automobile industries. And then he decided that the time could no longer be postponed for reaching for a Middle East settlement — and that put him athwart the Israeli lobby. Meanwhile he refused higher tariffs for the steel industry.

No president can retain majority approval when he offends at the same time the steel, oil, gas, automobile, defense and Israeli lobbies. They are bound to make common cause against any president who does.

None of the above proves that Carter's proposals were mistaken. In each case the goal is in the general interest of a majority of the American people. But it is not possible to pursue the general interest without damaging special interests, because the special interest is always seeking special advantage. That is what any lobby is all about.

COULD CARTER have avoided any of his present troubles? Obviously he lost strength from the unnecessary Lance affair. He should have cut his losses there at once. But on the Middle East, his advisers told him that time was fast running out and that he had to act at once. On the Panama Canal, his State Department and Pentagon advisers told him also that time was running out and that he needed the treaty as soon as possible to neutralize the danger of possible guerrilla attacks on the Canal and anti-American outbreaks all through Latin America.

Conceivably he might gain a little breathing space by slowing down on the Panama Canal treaties until after he has Arabs and Israelis talking to each other in Geneva. That way he would not necessarily have the full weight of both the Israeli lobby and the professional patriotic organizations on his back at the same time.

Germans pressing massive manhunt

Answering Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's call to avenge weeks of "rage, pain, sorrow," West Germany pressed the biggest manhunt in its history Thursday for Hanns-Martin Schleyer's killers. Police coordinated their search with colleagues in France and vowed the kidnapers and assassins of the chairman of the Federation of German Industry "will have no rest." The government named 16 suspects, distributed 1 million wanted posters in seven languages and offered rewards of $220,000.

In Rome, meantime, fierce gunbattle broke out around Rome University as thousands of left-wing students pulled red kerchiefs over their faces and traded bullets with police. At least seven persons, including four policemen, were wounded by gunfire.

The fighting broke out when police barred the students from marching on the West German Embassy to protest the "cold-blooded murder" of three urban guerrillas in a German prison.

Thailand's generals stage coup

Thailand's senior generals, angered at delays in restoring democracy, Thursday overthrew their own appointed ministers, seized control of the nation in a bloodless coup and promised elections next year. Official Radio Thailand said the coup leader, former defense minister Adm. Sangad Chaloryod, told King Bhumibol he was forced to seize power "to remedy a deteriorating situation." Political sources said Prime Minister Tanin Kraivixien refused a "request" by the military command to fire half of his 18-man cabinet, and the generals then launched the coup.

Sangad criticized the Tanin government for its long-range view of reestablishing democracy, which ended with Sangad's coup last year. He said Tanin's 16-year plan to hold elections in 1992 "is far too long and does not meet the wishes of the people."

U.S. doesn't need the Canal: Brown

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff testified Thursday that the United States could get along without the Panama Canal and would "continue to be a viable nation even if the canal were closed." But Gen. George S. Brown recommended ratification of the new canal treaties, noting that America will retain a permanent right to keep the waterway open using any means it chooses. "I think it's important that the United States divest itself of the last vestiges of colonialism in this hemisphere," Brown told the House Armed Services Committee.

Asked if he would recommend the treaty if he were president, Brown said, "Yes, I would. I have worked hard to get this treaty." Several committee members expressed concern about a possible communist attack on the canals and asked Brown how important they were. While stressing that the United States would retain a right to defend the canal, Brown said, "I don't think the canal is vital to the United States. I think the United States would continue to be a viable nation even if the canal were closed."

Bell makes decision on Helms

Attorney General Griffin Bell said Thursday he has made a decision on whether to prosecute former CIA director Richard Helms but will keep it secret while seeking President Carter's approval. Bell said he had discussed the case with Carter "only in a general way" and wanted to give the President more details, including possible security risks that could arise in a prosecution.

The Justice Department has been looking into allegations that Helms lied in testimony before a congressional panel investigating the CIA and it also checked whether the CIA under Helms' direction tried to subvert the Marxist regime of Chilean President Salvador Allende. Helms maintained the CIA had no direct part in Allende's overthrow, but the Senate Intelligence Committee concluded the agency was involved in undermining the Allende government. Bell conceded he has been under heavy pressures to drop the Helms investigation but "in the job that I have, you expect to be under some pressure."

CENTER OF ATTENTION. This is the way it looks from the defensive side of the line in football. The quarterbacks will be calling the plays again this weekend with several crucial confrontations on a high school level. There are still 48 unbeatens among the 537 schools which are fielding varsity football teams in Illinois this fall.

MSL giants collide on South side today

by ART MUGALIAN

Prospect is unbeaten. Elk Grove isn't unbeaten, but you probably figure they could be. Both of them would like to win the Mid-Suburban League South championship.

Tonight, things will begin to happen.

When they clash today at 8 p.m., the host Prospect Knights (6-0) and the visiting Elk Grove Grenadiers (5-1) will settle some questions concerning where the power resides in the MSL South. The winner will take a giant step toward the division title and an IHSA Class 5A playoff berth.

BUT THE GAME'S outcome, crucial as it might be, will not necessarily decide the South champion. That determination may have to wait a couple of weeks.

Knights — big, mobile, versatile and always unpredictable — are 4-0 in the South. They have shut out two of their last three opponents, but had trouble against Schaumburg (1-5). The Knights barely got past Hoffman Estates last week, 7-0. The previous week they needed overtime to beat winless Hersey.

Through it all, Prospect has displayed an excellent defense, led by do-everything linebacker Paul Izban and a multiple offense that is keyed by veteran quarterback Andy Loos and pass catcher Dave LaCosse.

"Prospect throws the ball real well and they run the ball real well," said

praise-bent Elk Grove coach Don Schnake. "Everything you've heard of, they'll run and their defense is out of this world."

ELK GROVE, whose only loss this season came when they were shorthanded against Barrington, shows a more basic offense but just as solid a defense. Like Prospect, the Grenadiers may have been looking ahead to the showdown game when Rolling Meadows forced them to come from behind for a 22-14 win Friday.

"We almost lost that one," Schnake said.

The Grens ground it out, though, reversing the 14-6 halftime deficit with a brutal running game that brought Meadows to its knees.

"Elk Grove is tough, no doubt about it," Prospect coach Gary Grouwinkel said. "We know they have a good team. They execute well. They're well coached. They're not at all fancy. They are a strong, sound basic football etam and I think they have probably the best offensive backfield in the league."

Elk Grove's backfield of QB. Ralph Souder, fullback Jack Walsh, and halfbacks Jim Meyer and John McCloughan was only hal fthere when Barrington stopped the Grens, 7-0, the second week of the season. Shoulder injuries to Souder and Walsh kept them on the sidelines, but the Grove defense held Barrington's awesome attack to its lowest point-total.

SINCE THEN, Elk Grove has beaten Forest View, Schaumburg, Meadows and Conant.

Elk Grove won last year's game 21-6, ending a two-game Prospect win streak. The series stands at 4-4.

While the two heavies battle it out under the lights tonight, Forest View will watch with interest before traveling to Schaumburg for a Saturday afternoon game against the Saxons.

With a 2-1 South record, Forest View's Falcons are still within reach of the division title. If they keep winning and if Prospect beats Elk Grove, the Falcons could throw the race into a three-way tie by beating Prospect in the final week of the season.

IN OTHER MSL games tonight, Palatine (1-2) visits North Division rival Arlington (2-1), Hersey (0-3) hosts Buffalo Grove (0-4), and Conant (1-2) takes on hosting Rolling Meadows(1-2).

St. Viator (5-1) welcomes St. Joseph (at Forest View's field) and Maine West (2-4) hosts Glenbrook South.

In action Saturday, Fremd and Barrington clash in a battle of unbeatens, Forest View meets Schaumburg, and Hoffman hosts Wheeling. See Saturday's Herald for a review of those contests.

Bears' Jerry Meyers is done sneaking around

by BOB GALLAS

Defensive end Jerry Meyers enjoys a unique spot in the annals of Chicago Bears Little Known Trivia.

As a boy, growing up on Chicago's North Side, he spent countless Sundays trying to sneak into Wrigley Field to watch the Bears' games. As a graduate of Northern Illinois University, he was twice cut by the Bears before sneaking on the roster. Now in his second pro season, Meyers has accomplished the crowning achievement — he has sneaked onto the starting defensive line.

Perhaps sneak is the wrong word to use when talking about the present day accomplishments of the quiet giant, who toils at defensive end in relative obscurity.

He's worked too hard to get where he is after being a 15th round draft choice out of NIU. But even though Meyers has earned the confidence and respect of his coaches and teammates, he still worries that one day he'll wake up and find it has all been a dream.

"I JUST WANT IT to go on forever," Meyers said, who is unashamed of his enthusiasm to play for the team he worshipped as a child. "I try not to worry but I can't help it, especially after I have a bad game or a bad practice.

Meyers was hurt in last Sunday's loss to Minnesota and is trying to nurse his injured knee back to form so that he can play Sunday against the Falcons. That's enough to cause more uneasiness for the 6-4, 255-pounder, who sincerely loves what he's doing.

But it almost never came to be.

Meyers drew little notice last year when he was cut during training camp. Another 15th round draft choice who bit the dust before he could get his uniform dirty. But the bears called him back, only to cut him just before the final exhibition game. He watched the Bears' regular season opener last year on television.

Just hours after the game, the phone rang again. It was Bears coach Jack Pardee.

"JERRY," Pardee said, "You made a position for yourself on the team. We originally didn't have one, but you've worked hard. You're going to be with us."

And he was. Meyers has been in every game since, and early this season wrested a starting spot at defensive end from Mike Hartenstine. All that from a guy who tried to sneak into Bears games, even when he had tickets.

"Once I helped them unload a truckload of hotdogs before the game to get in. I loaded one and got inside. Sometimes we'd get caught and get thrown out before kickoff, only to sneak back in to catch most of the game."

Meyers attitude is refreshing in the era of the spoiled prima donna athlete. He takes his work, not himself, seriously.

"I'LL NEVER MAKE a million playing this game and will never be a superstar," he says, all too modestly. "I know I can play the game well but was always realistic about my abilities."

But things are going well for Meyers. Last May he bought a home in Hoffman Estates, where he lives with his wife and young son. And he will never have to sneak into another Bears' game.

"I've worked hard to get here," said Meyers, who couldn't outlift defensive backs in the weight room when he first arrived, but has since built himself up, added 25 pounds and "created a new body. I sure as heck am not going to give any of it up without a fight.

"It's a cold business. You're only as good as you're doing at the time," he says. "I still sometimes feel like I'm living from day to day after what happened, being cut two times. But I'll never be sorry I was here."

Neither will the Bears.

BEAR FACTS: Brian Baschnagel, who returned kicks last season, will probably be the deep man this week against the Falcons in place of Art Best, but Pardee says Walter Payton will soon be returning kickoffs for the Bears . . . The Bears Nov. 20 home game against the Vikings will start an hour earlier than normal, at noon, to accommodate national television . . . The Bears have made another change on their extra point and field goal kicking teams after having two kicks blocked Sunday. . . Center Dan Peiffer replaces tackle Dennis Lick at the right guard spot on the two squads . . . Meyers started running on the knee he injured in Sunday's game and Pardee expects him to play Sunday . . . "He'll be limited some but I expect him to play, though I don't know if he'll be able to practice at all this week," Pardee said.

Jackson learns from past: Charity begins at home

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four years ago, when he was a different man with a different team, Reggie Jackson won a new car after being chosen the Most Valuable Player of the World Series.

"I said I was giving it to a charity in Arizona," Jackson recalled Thursday, "and then I heard from my sister. She said, 'Didn't you know my middle name is Charity.' She didn't talk to me for a few days after that."

As chance would have it, the past caught up with Jackson and he was given an opportunity to rectify his mistake. Once again, he was selected the series' MVP and once again he had a new car at his disposal.

THURSDAY, on a dark, rainy morning, Tina (Charity) Jones of Baltimore, hand in hand with her older brother, accepted the automobile Jackson had won for her by setting a handful of records when the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, four games to two, for the world championship.

"I'm absolutely elated," beamed the pretty, 29-year-old Mrs. Jones, accompanied by her husband and their baby daughter, Alexsandra. "I had to wait four years for the car, but now I've got a new model."

in her own way, Tina earned the car by helping her brother cope during a turbulent season. It wasn't dififcult at all to follow Reggie's emotional lows as they were featured prominently by the media. The entire family knew of his feuding and fussing with teammates and management.

"When we'd hear of something happening, we'd wait a couple of days for him to settle down and work things over in his own mind," Mrs. Jones said. "Then I'd call, or his mother, or one of his other sisters, to see if we could be of help to him. He has no wife, and sometimes he just needed someone he could talk to to release his frustration."

JACKSON, DRESSED conservatively in a three-piece gray suit with a white shirt and gray tie, said he is a different person than the one who played on three consecutive championship teams with Oakland from 1972-74. This season alone, he said, he noticed differences in his character and personality.

"I wouldn't say I was misunderstood," he said of his public image. "I would say people don't have the time to really know me."

Jackson earned the MVP car, awarded annually by Sport Magazine, with such series records as hitting five home runs, hitting three in one game in succession, scoring 10 runs, collecting 25 total bases and compiling a 1.250 slugging percentage. He hit .450 for the six games and drove in eight runs.

THE 31-YEAR-OLD right fielder predicted the Yankees would be a more cohesive and peaceful team in 1978, in contrast to this year's continual bickering and fighting.

"I think things will be a lot easier for us next year and we'll be a better baseball club," he said. "We'll be more unified and we'll have a togetherness. When you have that, that makes the intangible things happen and you can have greatness."

A smiling observer to the proceedings was George Steinbrenner, the Yankee owner who brought Jackson to New York for an estimated $3 million contract.

"I never had any doubts on Reggie," said Steinbrenner, wearing a Yankee logo on his tie. "I knew the guy could deliver, over and over again. I'm happy for Reggie, but the whole team was great."

For excitement, bring back the MSL's Super Bowl

Bob Frisk

Sports Editor

At the time I thought it was the greatest single piece of sports entertainment for area high school fans.

Nothing has happened over the past two years to alter that opinion.

Bring back the Mid-Suburban League's Super Bowl in footbal!

Remember when the North and South division winners would square off for the grand championship of the Mid-Suburban? Remember the interest that was generated by the game, the incredible fan support, the final countdown to kickoff?

Remember . . .

IT HAPPENED FOR the last time in 1974 when Schaumburg edged Hersey, 7-6, and a young man named Russ Zonca ran and ran and ran some more. That was the Super Bowl swan song, a closing act after five spectacular performances.

It was like closing down a smash hit on Broadway at the peak of its popularity with future sellouts guaranteed.

Financially, the Super Bowl was a blockbuster. It's amazing anything is shelved these days that is such a rousing success at the box office.

Artistically, the game had some rough moments because of the weather, but that never detracted from the high drama that surrounded every confrontation.

EVERY MID-SUBURBAN Super Bowl was like Michigan vs. Ohio State or Texas vs. Oklahoma. People talked about it everywhere. They anticipated it all season. They plotted the paths of the two divisions that would resslt in the ultimate shootout.

The flavor of the entire day strengthened each team, strengthened each school. Students would mill about the schools waiting, wondering.

Lines of cars formed early. Even the traffic jams were exciting. The cheers continued all day. Accompanied by brightly uniformed brass bands, clamoring partisans would thunder in unison, "We're number one!"

With pennants, badges, buttons, jackets and posters, the fans proclaimed their allegiance for the big game to come.

THERE IS NOTHING quite like it today in area sports. The basketball showdown between the North and South champs, an entertaining spectacle that continues, gives you some idea of the enthhsiasm surrounding a playoff, but the football battle was in a separate class. There was a different feeling involved, a more intense feeling.

If the Super Bowl had so much going for it, why was it dropped?

Enter the state tournament.

When Illinois put in the state football playoffs, the Mid-Suburban had a chance to get two teams into the playoffs. It was simple. Forget one No. 1. How about two No. 1s?

By junking the Super Bowl and not declaring an overall champion, the Mid-Suburban landed two state playoff spots, the North and South leaders.

SURE, IT'S NICE to have two representatives from the league automatically in the tourney, but how many teams have we sent to Bloomington for the finals? Was it really worth eliminating such a great night of sports entertainment?

Why not just send No. 1? Period.

There is so much going on in high school sports today that it is difficult to remember all the memorable events from the past. They all seem to run together in a blur of headlines, names, touchdowns, baskets, home runs. The memories are fuzzy.

That's not the case with the Mid-Suburban Super Bowl. Those are games you don't forget.

You remember Super Bowl I in 1970 between two unbeatens, Arlington and Prospect as vividly as you remember Super Bowl V between Schaumburg and Hersey. The memories are sharp, the names a pleasant reminder of the highest order of sports entertainment.

WHEN ARLINGTON and Prospect got together, they attracted possibly the biggest crowd ever to watch two area teams play football.

Arlington had everything working that night in a surprising 35-7 victory as Terry Ormsbee engineered a shattering ground attack that featured 249 yards by Scotty Douglas and 125 by Steve Chase.

Prospect's Stu White put the ball in the air 25 times with Casey Rush grabbing seven, but the Cardinals picked off five passes.

You can roll through the years and recall Elk Grove's 7-3 victory over Hersey in Super Bowl II, when sheets of cold air swept down in one frigid experience. Jim Leopardo cracked over from the six for the decisive touchdown before thousands of shivering fans.

Elk Grove's awesome 1972 team scored nine first period points and held on for a 9-0 Super Bowl III victory over Hersey. Jeff Stewart ran for 143 yards in the mud.

HERSEY REBOUNDED in Super Bowl IV and rocked Elk Grove, 30-16, as Jimmy Spicuzza rambled for 154 yards, and Schaumburg and Zonca did their thing in Super Bowl V.

The Mid-Suburban Super Bowl created its own unique atmosphere. This was the something the league could really be proud of, a classic game that stirred the feelings of everyone involved.

Maybe only he participants could understand the true nature of this game, but I know how much I enjoyed the spectacle.

On Super Bowl night I felt a blast of excitement just walking through the gate and into a stadium crammed with humanity, rocking with noise.

This was neighbor against neighbor for the No. 1 spot in Mid-Suburban football. Nothing has replaced it.

Purdue's '77 lesson still teaching Michigan

The lessons of last year's abrupt fall from the top may be the most important ingredient in keeping Michigan Number One this season.

Michigan was undefeated and top ranked when it made a trip to Purdue last year. The Wolverines still recall with bitterness that 16-14 loss to the Boilermakers.

"We're not going to take anyone lightly," offered fullback Russell Davis, who gained 105 yards last week in a 56-0 romp over previously undefeated Wisconsin. "We learned a lesson last year from Purdue."

Undefeated and ranked No. 1 again, Michigan is expected to have little trouble against 20-point underdog Minnesota on Saturday but the Wolverines know that can quickly change if they continue to be slowed by injuries.

College football

"SOONER OR LATER those injuries have to catch up with you," said coach Bo Schembechler, who lost 237-pound junior guard John Arbeznik last week with a knee injury. He was the sixth offensive iineman to be disabled this season and one of a dozen injured front line players.

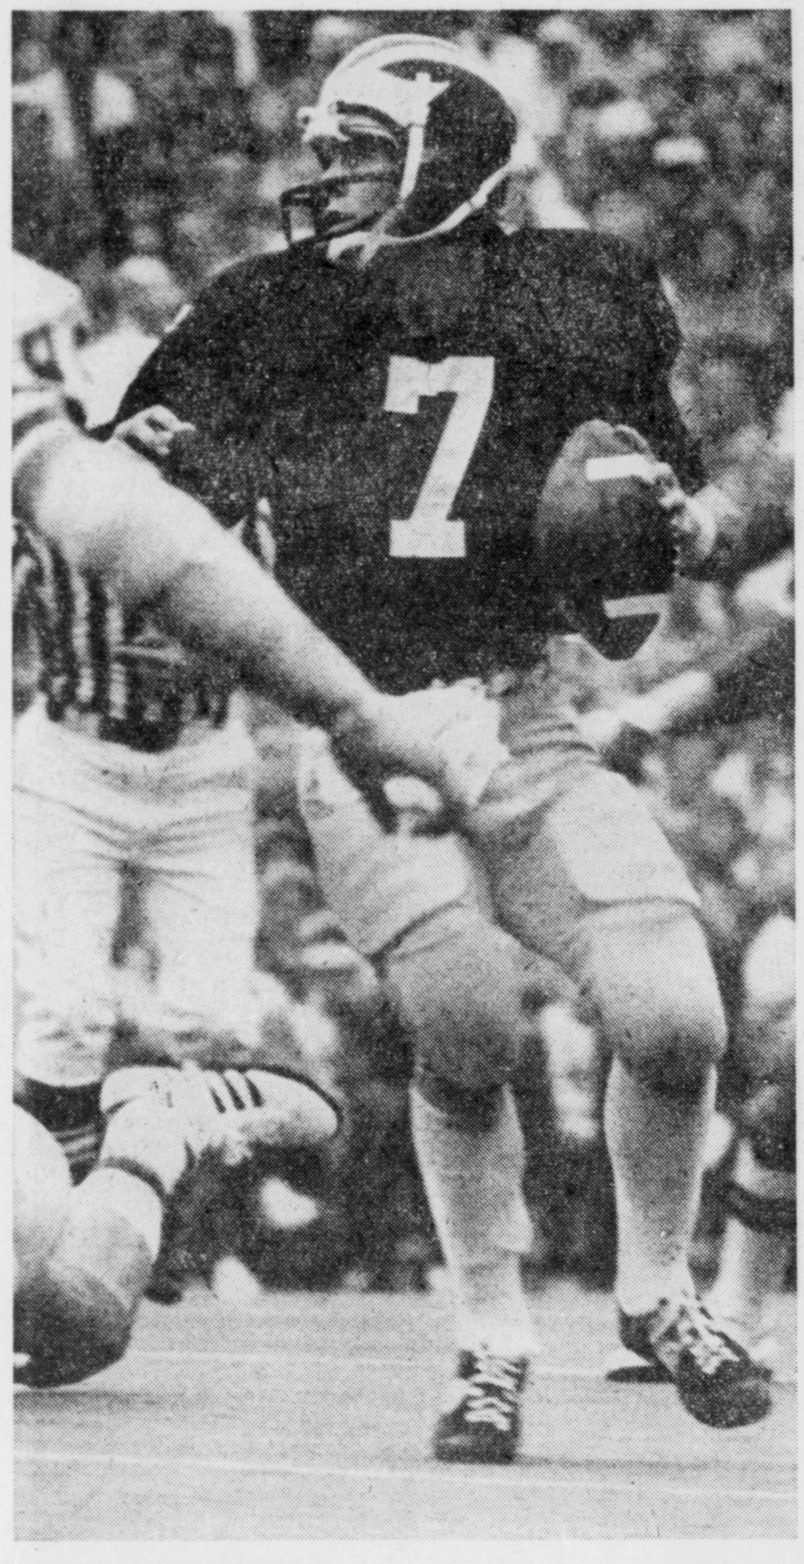

"Everytime we have lost someone," Schembechler added, "somebody else has stepped in and done the job, but that can't continue."

Quarterback Rick Leach, who completed 10 of 16 passes for 127 yards against Wisconsin, is also concerned about a letdown against lesser teams.

"We remember the Purdue game and there just can't be any letdown. We have to be ready to play for every game."

IN OTHER GAMES involving nationally ranked teams, No. 2 Texas is a 17-point favorite over Southern Methodist University, Alabama is an off-the-board favorite over Louisville, No. 4 Southern California is a six-point favorite over 10th-ranked Notre Dame, No. 5 Ohio State is off the board over Northwestern, No. 6 Oklahoma is favored by 14 over Iowa State, No. 7 Colorado is a four-point underdog in a big game at 17th-ranked Nebraska, No. 8 Arkansas is favored by 11 over Houston and No. 9 Penn State is a 14-point favorite over West Virginia.

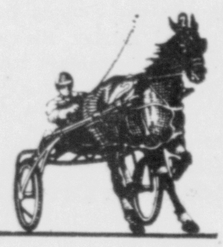

United Press International

MICHIGAN QUARTERBACK Rick Leach, who threw for 127 yards in the Wolverines' 56-0 romp over Wisconsin, fears a letdown with Minnesota coming up Saturday.

Flyers look unbeatable in 11-0 laugher

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Reggie Leach and Bill Barber tallied two goals each Thursday night to lead the Philadelphia Flyers to an 11-0 rout over the Pittsburgh Penquins giving Flyers' goalie Bernie Parent his first shutout of the year.

Leach's 200th NHL goal, which came at 7:16 of the first period, and his second goal of the game with 15 seconds to go in the period upped the Flyers lead to 4-0. Barber scored twice in the final period.

Ross Lonsberry got the Flyers, 4-0, started with a goal on a rebound shot just nine seconds into the game. Team captain Bobby Clarke made it 2-0 at 1:27 with a 40-footer off the right pad of goalie Dunc Wilson at 1:27.

The Flyers picked up three more goals in the second period from Jim Watson, Don Saleski and Mel Bridgman, and Bob Kelly and Barry Dean closed out the scoring in the third period.

NHL report

CANADIENS 2, RED WINGS 2

Defenseman Larry Robinson's short backhander 16 seconds from the end of the game enabled the outplayed Montreal Canadiens to escape Detroit with a 2-2 tie from the Red Wings and keep the defending Stanley Cup champions unbeaten in five games this season.

Center Doug Jarvis won a key faceoff to Detroit goalie Eddie Giacomin's left with 18 seconds to go and slid the puck so Robinson could slip home his game-tying shot two seconds later. Montreal thus averted a possible first loss in Detroit since 1973.

Rookie Rob Plumb's first NHL point, a power play goal at 10:02 of the second period, had put the Red Wings ahead 2-1.

SABRES 7, ROCKIES 5

Danny Gare and Craig Ramsay each scored three goals to power the Buffalo Sabres to a 7-5 victory over the Colorado Rockies.

The two linemates also added a pair of assists apiece as the Sabres came out on top in the freewheeling contest. The hat tricks gave both Gare and Ramsay four goals for the year.

Colorado's Wolf Paiement tied the game at 17:10 of the session, but Gare completed his hat trick with 11 seconds left in the period by converting a perfect pass from Ramsay. Tom Edur tied the seesaw game at 5-5 early in the third period, but Ramsay notched his hat trick by tipping in the puck in a goalmouth scramble to put Buffalo back on top, 6-5, at 6:09. Buffalo's Don Luce added the insurance goal with a short-handed score at 11:48.

BARONS 7, NORTH STARS 4

Two third period goals by Dave Gardner and stalwart goaltending by Gilles Meloche sparked the visiting Cleveland Barons to a 7-4 victory over the winless Minnesota North Stars Thursday night.

Frazier brings Cleveland to 107-104 victory

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Walt Frazier scored nine of his 19 points in a fourth-quarter Cleveland comeback and Campy Russell added 23 Thursday night to pace the Cavaliers to a 107-104 NBA victory over the New Orleans Jazz.

Frazier, held to 10 points through the first three periods, scored five points in the final 2:15 when the Cavaliers put the game away.

Joe Meriweather and Truck Robinson hit a pair of layups each to give the Jazz a 98-96 lead late in the fourth quarter. Then Frazier hit a 20-footer to tie the score with 2:15 left and the ex-New York Knick guard added a three-point play with 39 seconds left to give Cleveland a safe 105-100 lead.

The Cavaliers held the biggest lead of either team, 43-32, with 6:29 left in the half, but Pete Maravich — the game's leading scorer with 29 points — hit six of the Jazz' next 10 points to help close the gap to 49-47 at halftime.

Wheeling girls may show heels to MSL runners

PATTI MILES of Palatine negotiates a hill in preparation for the Mid-Suburban League girls cross country finals Saturday. Wheeling is the team favorite.

by VIC NOVAK

Wheeling High School is expected to defend its Mid-Suburban League Girls Cross Country title successfully Saturday at Veteran Acres Park, Crystal Lake, but not without a fight from Hoffman Estates and Arlington.

The open race for all nonvarsity competitors starts at 9 a.m. with the varsity meet 20 minutes later.

At last year's conference meet, five Wheeling runners placed among the top 10 finishers.

It will be harder for Wheeling to repeat that performance this year because other league teams have improved so much, Wildcat coach Jim Nagel said.

"ARLINGTON IS probably the most competitive team I've seen from week to week (and) Hoffman Estates has won some big meets," Nagel said.

The Cardinals of Arlington and the Hawks of Hoffman Estates tied for second (7-2 each) behind first place Wheeling (9-0) during the conference dual meet season that ended Tuesday.

Arlington coach Linda Jayne also thinks the competition will be keener this year.

"It's going to be one heck of a good meet because we're going to have some of the top teams in the state," Jayne said.

The Arlington coach said much depends on how well the teams adapt from the flat courses they have been running to the hilly Veteran Acres course.

ARLINGTON'S SUCCESS this season featured no standout individual but strong balance from Becky Ivan, Debbie Ullenius, Debbie Kelly, Kathy Donnellan, Sue Cripe and Brenda Boelkens.

Two invitational championships helped the Hoffman Estates Hawks fly high in 1977. Hoffman won the Palatine and Lockport invitationals.

Hoffman Estates coach Bob Lyons said he thinks two of his runners, Tara Leiby and Char Warring, can make the top 10. A third runner, Nancy Greaney, could be among the top 15 finishers.

Although Arlington and Hoffman are rated as Wheeling's toughest challengers, don't forget Hersey. Coach Larry Travis' Huskies nearly upset Wheeling Tuesday before losing a 27-28 decision.

THE INDIVIDUAL conference championship is expected to be a duel between Hersey's Margaret LaPorte and Palatine's Joan Kelly.

Other possible individual titlists include Leiby, Ivan, Sharon Orphanedes of Buffalo Grove, Chris Rathje, Denise Begrowicz and Betsy Buenzow of Wheeling.

Although Arlington and Hoffman Estates could put as many as two or three runners in the top 15, Wheeling is favored to win again because of its depth.

The difference in a big meet such as this one is how high a team's fourth and fifth runners finish and Wheeling's other entries shoud place high.

"We think we can win it," Nagel said.

Theft leader

Former major league shortstop Luis Aparicio owned the American League bases for nine consecutive seasons (1956-64) when he led the league in thefts. His highest mark came in 1964 when he collected 57 for the Baltimore Orioles. He only needed 21 in 1956 to lead the league.

Pate, Eichelberger lead Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Jerry Pate used a friend's putting advice to help him shoot a 64 Thursday for the opening round lead in the $125,000 Southern Open.

And Dave Eichelberger made a recent discovery pay off with a 5-under-par 65 on the 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club Course.

"I had been putting the ball terrible lately," said Pate, the 1976 U. S. Open champion who was slowed by a shoulder injury early this year.

"But a real good friend in Pensacola noticed that I had moved the ball back inside my left foot. Ever since last Friday, I've been trying to get my stance straightened out, but it didn't feel comfortable until today."

One stroke behind Eichelberger at 66 is George Archer and at 3-under-par 67 are Johnny Miller, Bob Wynn, Terry Diehl, Don Bies and Gibby Gilbert.

In a group at 68 are Lee Trevino, Jerry Heard, Sammy Rachels, Wally Armstrong, Bruce Fleisher and Mason Rudolph, winner of the first Southern Open in 1970.

Last year's winner, Mac McLendon, shot a 69, and U.S. Open champion Hubert Green, who won here in 1975, had a 70.

Wings trade Bergeron to Islanders

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — The Detroit Red Wings traded Michel Bergeron, a potential "super hockey player," to the New York Islanders Thursday for "worker" Andre St. Laurent in an exchange of forwards.

Bergeron, 23, a right wing, should give the Islanders, who can cover his defensive weaknesses, some needed firepower since he scored a record 32 goals in his rookie season.

St. Laurent, 24, a center, should provide the Red Wings with the steadiness new GM Ted Lindsay and Coach Bobby Kromm desire. He has scored 38 goals in his 259-game career entering this season.

Bergeron and St. Laurent, fourth-round draft choices in 1974 and 1973 respectively, will join their new clubs for their next games. Detroit hosted Montreal Thursday night while the Islanders are at Atlanta Friday night.

U.S. net team leads Connolly meet

TORQUAY, England — New Yorker Mary Carillo produced the biggest upset of the day Thursday when she downed No. 1 seed Michelle Tyler, 7-5, 6-3, and led the United States to a 4-0 first day lead over Britain in the Maureen Connolly Under-21 tennis trophy.

Tyler, due to play for her country in the Wightman Cup against the U.S. next month, served 12 double faults against the 20-year-old Carillo, who came from behind in each set and was down 4-5 in the first set.

Earlier, Barbara Hallquist upset British Junior Grasscourt champion Jo Durie, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, and Stacy Margolin beat Anne Hobbs, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, in this junior version of the Wightman Cup.

Record-holding quarter horse stolen

STANTON, Calif. — Town Policy, a gelding who set a world record for a 2-year-old quarterhorse when he captured the Fresno Futurity in 19.67 seconds for 400 years, has been stolen from a stable here, it was reported Thursday.

A winner of more than $300,000 and beaten just once in 10 starts this year, Town Policy was taken sometime late Wednesday night or early Thursday. He is owned by Ivan Ashment of Idaho.

The theft was discovered Thursday at 6:15 a.m. PDT Thursday when Mike Chambless, foreman of the Blane chvanevelod Racing Stable, came to the ranch to feed the horses. Town Policy was last seen Wednesday at 10 p.m.

Town Policy's only loss was a second place as the favorite in the world's richest horse race, the All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, N.M.

Allison gets pole for American 500

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. — Chevrolet driver Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., turned in a lap at 138.685 miles per hour Thursday to win the pole position for Sunday's $137,000 American 500 stock car race.

Allison edged NASCAR point leader Cale Yarborough, who turned in a lap at 138.016 mph in another Chevrolet to capture the outside front row position in the 13th running of the race at the North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Benny Parsons nailed down third place at 137.828 mph in a Chevrolet and Darrell Waltrip was fourth in another Chevy at 137.652 mph. Defending champion Richard Petty captured the No. 5 spot with a speed of 137.632 mph in a Dodge.

Allison also won the pole position for the Carolina 500 here in March but Petty was winner of the race.

Andretti likes chances in Japan race

GOTEMBA, Japan, — Mario Andretti, winner of last year's Japan Grand Prix race, said Thursday he has a good chance of winning here again this year if his Lotus runs "properly" in Sunday's race at the Fumi International Speedway.

"I don't have any particular preference of any course if the car (Lotus 78) is working properly," said Andretti, who has won Four Formula One races this year...

Going into the final event Sunday of the 17-race Grand Prix program, Andretti is in third place with an over-all total of 47 points. Austria's Niki Lauda clinched the 1977 title at Watkins Glen, N.Y. Oct. 2 when he finished fourth. Lauda, who skipped the Canadian GP and will miss this race, is switching from the Ferrari team to Brabham next season. He has an unbeatable 72 points for the year.

Connors leads surge in Australia

SYDNEY, Australia — Jimmy Connors led an American surge in the $175,000 Australian indoor tennis championships Thursday with a 58-minute, 6-2, 6-0 victory over Aussie Tony Roche.

Nick Saviano defeated Australian Colin Dibley, 7-5, 6-7, 6-3, in the first of two singles matches played at the Hordern pavilion.

The Americans then split a pair of doubles matches as Hank Pfister and Butch Walts defeated Australians Ray Ruffels and Alan Stone, 6-3, 6-4, before the tandem of Vitas Gerulaitis and Bill Scanlon bowed to Wimbledon doubles champions Ross Case and Geoff Masters of Australia, 6-3, 5-7,

Bills highlights

BILLS JUNIOR FOOTBALL HIGHLIGHTS

As the playoffs approach in Northwest Suburban Junior Football, there is a good possibility that six of seven Bills traveling tams could make a playoff berth. Four of seven teams are unbeaten and two others have just one loss.

Bills Widgets 7, Lombard Broncos 6

Coach Doug Stroud praised the play of Jimmy McNeely with seven tackles and two punt returns for 35 yards and defensive end Philip Ryan with five tackles and a recovered fumble. He also noted the defensive unit that stopped Lombard at the 4-yard line on four tries. The offensive unit was led by back Brian Farrisey 96 yards rushing in 17 carries. John Anderson who rushed for 59 yards and the standout play of QB Steve Lucas who moved the club for 193 total yards. Lucas was also the key on two fourth down situations when he picked up two important first downs on QB sneaks. Farrisey scored the lone TD.

Bills Lightweights 52, Cedarburg (Milwaukee) Colts 0

The unbeaten, unscored on Bills Lightweights took their unblemished record north to Milwaukee Saturday for a non-league game with the Cedarburg Colts. The defense held Cedarburg to -20 yards rushing, and zero yards passing. Offensively, touchdowns were scored by back Eddie Wasinger with three TD runs of 47, 14 and 53 yards from scrimmage. Fullback Joel Fish on a 1-yard plunge and Fish again on a 23 yard pass play from QB Mark Loeffler. End Donnie Triplett caught a 19 yard pass from QB Joe Molloy, and back Chris Fantuzzi went in from 27 yards away. As a team the Bills rushed for over 400 yards and passed for another 93.

Pee Wee Gold 26, St. Thomas Trojans 0

The Golden Pee Wees are still unbeaten following their shutout. The offense rushed for 321 yards thanks to standout line play of Brian Ringel, Todd Rhodes, Bob Palm, Bill Mueller, Bob Bencko, Larry Chapa and Ed Iszak. Touchdowns were scored by QB Brad Dyson on a 10-yard run, Todd Tabachka with an 81-yard run, back Terrill Brown from 38 yards out, and fullback Brian Mitalo for 65 yards. Defensively, Brian "Anchor" Mitalo keyed the defensive 11 holding the Trojan running attack to just 34 yards. The Golds next game is Friday at 6:30 p.m. in Gagewood against the Gagewood Packers.

Bills Heavyweights 45, St. Thomas Trojans 0

It was simply a team effort in the eyes of head coach Frank Kiraly, who got standout performances from all his players. The offensive running attack of backs Crhis Hybarger, Jeff Zelen and Larry Tellschow produced five TD's. Kicker Larry Richards booted five extra points good for 10 points. The offensive line of Mark McCleary, Jay Menzel, J. D. Moore, and Eric Gundy opened large holes in the Trojan defense. On defense, Menzel had his best effort as he recovered a fumble and blocked a punt. Other defensive standouts were Larry Alice, John Berg, Sean O'Conor and Tony Souders. The heavies host the winless Lake Zurich Flames Sunday at Buffalo Grove High School. Game time is 2 p.m.

Pee Wee White 35, Hoffman Rams 7

Running back Jim Fergadis scored a pair of Bills TD's on runs of 10 and 40 yards. Back Sam Merriott was equally impressive scoring two TD's on runs of 9 and 21. Dan O'Connor scored the last TD from 7 yds. out. Back Steve Scroeeder rushed for 75 yrds. as top ground gainer. The defense held Hoffman to minus yardage and was keyed by Don Ochs, Skip More, Ed Levy and John Cioli. The Pee Wee Whites host Addison Blue in the final regular season game next Saturday, Oct. 22, at Emmerich Park.

Bills Lightweights 39, St. Thomas Trojans 0

The Bills Lightweights broke open a slim 7-0 half time lead to crush the St. Thomas Trojans 39-0 at Buffalo Grove High School last Sunday. It was the seventh straight win for the Bills and the seventh straight shut out this year for the defensive unit. Fullback Joel Fish scored the only TD of the first half on a 33-yard sweep. In the second half Fish scored his second TD of the game from 18 yards away. Halfback Ross Barone carried the ball seven straight times and ended up with a TD from 11 yards out. Right end Donnie Triplett went over on an end around from the 14. Back Eddie "The Thief" Wasinger toook the ball in from the 16. The defense gave up just one first down and several players performed well for defensive coach Don Nelson — Mark Farmer, Mike Blow, Eddie Watrin, Mark Murphy, Mark Loeffler and Chris Fantuzzi. The lightweights final home game of the regular season is Sunday at 12:30 p.m. at Buffalo Grove High School. Their opponent is the Lake Zurich Flame.

Pee Wee Red 14, Addison Blue 13

The Pee Wee Red may have been looking ahead to next weeks first-place game with the Addison Whites, but by looking two weeks away it almost cost them a game with the Addison Blue. But in a come from behind win the Reds prevailed 14-13 last Friday night. Robby Meskevich took the opening kickoff 68 yards for the first TD. A pass from QB Scott Walker to Tracy Hennesy made it 8-0 at half. But Addison scored twice in the third quarter and took a 13-8 lead into the final quarter. The Bills drove to the Addison nine, and four plays later scored on a QB keeper by Scott Walker. Defensive standouts for the Reds were Oscar Westgaard, Joe Ledna, Jim Cantanzaro and safties Kent Mathis and Ken Kozemzak. Saturday at Emmerich Park the Reds host once beaten Addison White in a battle for first. Earlier in the season the Whites won a close 10-6 game over the Bills Red.

Pee Wee Black 45, Bartlett 0

It was no contest in the Pee Wee Black's 45-0 shutout over Bartlett of the Bill George League in a non-league game. Touchdowns were scored on QB Ray Stricklands' 45-yard pass to end Rick Murphy, a 63-yard punt return by Strickland, a pair of TD runs fullback Bob Hajek from 25 and 47 yards, John Dempsey's 1-yard plunge and Tim Peterson's 25-yard pass interception. Back Stan Anderson rushed for 45 yards in another good performance. Defensive standouts were Paul and Mike Riscossa, Jim McDonald, Lee Ellis and Steve Rose. The Bills Black are back in league action Sunday when they host the Lake Zurich Flame at 11a.m. at Buffalo Grove High School.

Hoffman Estates

The Rangers of the Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn. defeated the previously undefeated Glen Ellyn team, 19-0 Sunday at Conant High School. The offense was led by excellent quarterbacking from Ron Furlong, who also rushed for 58 yards. Mark Binder rushed for 97 yards, including two touchdowns and one extra point, while Craig Yarwood ran for 78 yards and one touchdown. The offense gained 254 total yards compared to 20 by the Glen Ellyn Team. The defense was led by Dave Owca with seven tackles, while Pat Weadick and Tim Knitter both intercepted passes. With one game remaining the Rangers are tied for first place with Glen Ellyn and Schaumburg all having 6-1 records. The Rangers have outscored their opponents 175-12.

Rookie not just pretty face to Hawks

Wilson flies into NHL 'initiation'

Rick Christopher
Byline report

Initiation into the National Hockey League comes in all forms. Some players are marked by cuts and bruises, others by a vast number of stitches.

The the premiere indoctrination into the fast-paced game lies within a player's smile — and missing teeth. If players who sport the open-gaped smile, such as Bobby Hull, Gordie Howe and Bobby Orr, give any indication to a career, the Black Hawks' Doug Wilson is off to an excellent start.

Chicago's 20-year-old defenseman lost his first tooth after his second professional game as a Black Hawk.

Wilson's course suddenly was impeded by Rockies' defenseman John Van Boxmeer, and the two fell to the ice. Wilson cracked his front tooth on Van Boxmeer's head and had it extracted before Wednesday's game with Buffalo.

The preseason book on the Black Hawks' No. 1 draft choice was that he had the ability to carry the puck as well as protect the blueline as an amateur.

Wilson's 30-foot slap shot in the first period sailed past Buffalo goalie Don Edwards for his second goal of the season. The Hawks second draft choice, Jean Savard, scored his second to give Chicago a 2-2 tie.

THE TWO ROOKIES currently lead the Black Hawks in scoring. When was the last time any rookie, let alone two, led the Black Hawks in scoring during the season?

In recent memory, never.

"It's nice to be there and it gives me a little more confidence. The wings have been carrying the puck back which has helped," Wilson said.

"I think the Black Hawks will have a different type of scoring this season. Not that 50-goal scorer but a lot of guys shipping in with 20 or so.

"But you do need that one high man to be a successful team," Wilson said.

AT OTTAWA last year, Wilson scored 25 goals and registered 79 points as a defenseman. The 6-1, 187-pounder credits Chicago's top executive Bobby Orr with his sudden offensive surge in the NHL.

In the Buffalo game alone, Wilson took five of the 22 shots Chicago made at the Sabres' net. Four of those came in the first period.

"Orr told me to give it my best and not worry about the mistakes. Everyone has them," Wilson said. "If you stop and think about those errors the other team has a chance to capitalize.

"If I see an opportunity open up I'll usually take advantage of it."

ADAPTING TO big league play is different for everyone, but the increase in the player's speed has given Wilson some nervous moments in the Black Hawks first four games. He said, there are no weaknesses in the NHL. Wilson teams with Dale Tallon on one of the four line changes used by Black Hawk coach Bob Pulford.

Under the first-year coach's new system of positioned hockey, Wilson has had little difficulty adjusting to the other players' style.

Rotating on penalty-killing situations, Wilson often finds himself with Keith Magnuson, Phil Russell or Dave Logan.

"If anything, they'll have more problems adjusting to me," Wilson said. "But with this new system, everyone knows where to go and has his own role to carry out.

"SO FAR WE'VE all been pulling together and everyone backs up the other. I know it has helped me."

It has been the tendency of Black Hawk management in past years to bounce some of their younger players back and forth from the minors. Chicago's Chico Maki was the latest Hawk to climb the yo-yo during the late 1960s

"If Pulford sees I'm having difficulty adjusting and it's affecting my confidence and if the minors was my only answer, then I would go," Wilson said.

"I'll try my best no matter where it's at. Hopefully it will be here."

So far, Wilson's best has been best for the Black Hawks.

Tennis club schedules fall meeting

The Des Plaines Tennis Club will hold its fall meeting Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m.

This semi-annual session will be at the South Park Fieldhouse, Howard and White streets.

Events for the winter season will be planned and a recap given on the highlights of the past summer, which included successful seasons by the traveling teams, various leagues and several tournaments.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held and the results of the last puzzle contest will be announced and a prize awarded for the best entry.

Loos hangs tight in rough going

by KEITH REINHARD

On the sidelines he may not live up to his name, but put Andy Loos in a ballgame an dexpect nothing but a tight performance.

The veteran Prospect quarterback had passed four touchdowns earlier this year to beat Palatine, Schaumburg and Hersey although his coach, Gary Grouwinkle, recalled: "Andy was shaking like a leaf when he came off the field after throwing a TD pass to beat Hersey in overtime. I kidded him at the time by asking if he was shaking because of the cold and rain or out of fright."

Even if the 5-11, 188-pound senior shows any sign of fear off the field, it's Prospect's foes who should be concerned on the gridiron. Last weekend, Loos flipped his sixth touchdown pass of the season among 177 yards worth of throwing to beat Hoffman

Andy Loos

Estates and take over the area lead in passing.

"ANDY's AN excellent student, gets along extremely well with his teammates and is a good quarterback because he's worked hard to excel at it," Grouwinkle said. "Since summertime he's been putting in so much time every day on his passing game."

The Prospect coach believes Loos would have even more impressive statistics thus far had it not been for a pair of damp, muddy Friday games not exactly conducive to throwing the ball.

Despite the inclement weather Andy has completed an area-high 37 passes for 431 yards and his clutch performances are part of the reason for the perfect 6-0 slate Prospect will take into their crucial game with Elk Grove tonight.

"He's just an outstanding all-around athlete," Grouwinkle said. "I'm glad we've got him on our side."

Harper tackles Joliet Saturday

While the Harper Hawks will be working on a three-game winning streak Saturday night, their opponents will be hoping to end a very embarrassing streak.

The Hawks will play at 7:30 p.m. Joliet. The Wolves were ranked No. 1 in the nation among junior colleges just two weeks ago, but two losses to Wright and Kennedy-King have hurt Joliet's standing.

Harper coach John Eliasik still believes that the Wolves have the best team his Hawks will have to face this year. Harper has the advantage of three consecutive shutouts, but Joliet's home field should provide a balance.

Eliasik is hoping his offense, which has shown improvement, will be able to have a little more scoring punch when it gets close to the goal line.

The Hawks have shown a reluctance to pierce the opponent's end zone, a problem that has bothered their coach. But they have been able to score enough points to have a 45-0 advantage in the last three contests.

Harper beat Joliet last year, 14-9. This year, both teams enter the game with 4-2 records.

Snowmobile show, fashions Oct. 28-30

The newest in snowmobiles and winter apparel will be on display Friday through Sunday, Oct. 28-30, in the Midwest Snowmobile Show at the O'Hare Exposition Center, 9301 Bryn Mawr Ave., Rosemont.

In addition to the latest snowmobiles, new winter snowmobile fashions will be on display, with a mini show featuring new sweaters, suits and jackets from Ski-Doo Sportswear being presented at intervals throughout the weekend.

The fashion show will feature Miss Iowa, Debbie Scheller, and two former Miss Minnesotas, Mary Williams and Charlotte Sims Olein.

LESS WORK FOR MOTHER.

A Puch (it rhymes with book) may just be the answer to your prayers.

Because it's less work and more fun than anything else on wheels.

It's easy to ride. Easy to maintain. And easy on the purse strings.

Still it's more fun than anything so sensible has any right to be.

The pedals are for starting. The engine's for breezing around the countryside (at a dignified pace of course), making your rounds, doing your errands, or just plain having a good time.

Who needs one?

Anybody who appreciates up to 125 miles on a gallon of fuel, and everybody who's for a few more smiles as we pass through this vale of tears. We sell Puch and we'd like to invite you by for a test ride. Just to see how much fun less work can be.

PUCH. THE MAXIMUM MOPED.

Mark your ballots for best gridders

Pick MSL's all-time greats

by KEITH REINHARD

Who's the best?

Was Conant's Jim McGraw a better ball carrier than Wheeling's Jack Bastable? Where do you fit in Palatine's Jim Popp, Forest View's Mike Pryor or Elk Grove's Tim Roberts?

How about quarterback? Is it possible to compare a Jeff Stewart with a Russ Zonca or a Stu White? Would Marty Friel have caught more passes if Phil Donahue was throwing to him or would Chris Andriano have been an even better receiver with Steve Brietbeil as a signal caller?

AND WHAT ABOUT linemen? Would you pick a Jerry Finis over a Craig Brinkman? Did Dan Selleck move them out any better than Tom Stonerock?

All of these fine athletes — as well as many more — have in common the fact that they starred on the gridirons of the Mid-Suburban League.

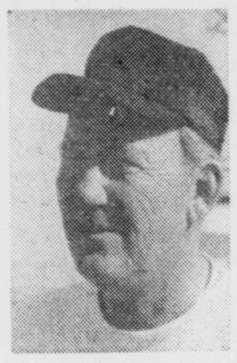

But who really was the best from the MSL's first 15 years? Over the next few weeks this writer will attempt to determine the all-time top MSL football team in the most democratic and diplomatic way possible — by putting it to a vote.

In order to make the task a bit easier, a list has been compiled of some of the stellar conference players. These individuals have made their way to the top on merit and their recognition includes either all-state accolades, two-time all-league selection or simply impressive statistics.

THE VOTING WILL be simple. Just clip out the attached ballot and mark off anywhere from one to 22 players you feel worthy of all-time MSL selection. There's room at the bottom to write in any names not mentioned.

Arv Herstedt

Don Schnake

Vote as often as you like, but not more than once for any single player on each ballot. Send them to the Daily Herald Sports Dept., 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

In addition to the fan votes, nearly 30 past and present MSL coaches will be contacted over the next few weeks and their votes will carry the strength of their number of years in the MSL ranks.

On that basis skippers such as Palatine's Arv Herstedt (12 seasons), Elk Grove's Don Schnake (ten), Hersey's Joe Gliwa (seven) and Schaumburg's Bob Ferguson (seven) as well as former coaches such as Prospect's Don Williams and Wheeling's Jack Liljeberg will carry significant weight.

Colorful Corso still sticks to football's basics

Loren Tate

In his very first game at Indiana in 1973, coach Lee Corso kept the home crowd and the competing University of Illinois in anxious anticipation as he warmed up the Hoosier squad in a nearby fieldhouse and bused them in at game time.

It didn't pay off since Bob Blackman's Illini prevailed, 28-14. But Corso established his image, and everyone still believes all the words they write about him in the Indiana brochure: "colorful .. . innovative . . . dynamic . . . unpredictable . . . exciting."

And, of course, "flamboyant."

THAT'S THE Corso peronality. But don't be fooled. When it comes down to the basics of football, Corso is a lot closer to the Hayes-Schembechler philosophy than you would expect.

In a stirring comeback win (24-21) over previously ranked Louisiana State Sept. 17, Corso employed a 1-2 punch at tailback — Ric Enis and Darrick Burnett — to net 196 yards out of the position, 65 of it in the final drive which saw Enis run in with the winning TD from the 11-yard line.

With a clear personnel advantage on Northwestern, Corso's Hoosiers passed just five times in pounding out a 28-3 decision.

"You hear this talk about Lee Corso, and maybe you think he's gonna do a lot of crazy things," warns Illini coach Gary Moeller. "But that's not the case. Indiana is a sound football team. They'll challenge our inside defense Saturday. That's why their tailback ranks near the top of the Big 10 statistics, no matter who it is."

THE RECORD bears out Moeller's statement. Indiana lost its top three tailbacks in the first three games of 1976, starting with veteran Courtney Snyder. Still, a baby-faced 5-8 Ohioan named Mike Harkrader became the first freshman in the Big 10 and only the fourth in NCAA history to rush for 1,000 yards.

Harkrader was lost at the outset of this season and Burnett, now the top ground gainer with 529 yards, is sidelined after being unable to play against Michigan State last weekend. So all the Hoosiers did was turn over the job to converted fullback Enis and rip the Spartans for a school record 94 plays, the ninth best total offense figure of 498 yards and the second highest number of first downs, 30. Enis, using key blocks from fullback Tony D'Orazio, ran for 143 of those yards.

Hoosier dominance was so complete that, when MSU scored in the last two minutes to make the score 13-12, coach Darryl Rogers elected to settle for a tie by kicking the extra point. The 13-13 result was a moral victory for MSU.

"We fumbled the game away," said Indiana publicist Kit Klingelhoffer.

"We fumbled five times and lost them all. There was no question we outplayed them. We crossed them up with some passes after throwing just five times against Northwestern. The strategy was fine but we fumbled too many times."

THROUGH IT ALL, the Hoosiers are striving to recover from a rash of injuries. Joe Norman, the AP's top defensive player last Saturday, may not play against Illinois. If so, he would be the 18th Hoosier starter to miss at least one game. Norman, with 77 tackles and five fumble recoveries, has strained knee ligaments.

"This team is loaded with desire," Klingelhoffer said. At Nebraska, it was 17-13 in the fourth quarter when Corso tried a 4th-and-1 play on his own 42. It failed and Nebraska scored twice late in the game for a 31-13 decision, but the game was closer than that. We actually made more first downs than Nebraska."

So the Illini have no typical Indiana patsy coming up at Memorial Stadium Saturday. These Hoosies got their heads up by whippng Wisconsin and Purdue at the tag end of 1976 and they're bent on squaring a 2-3-1 record in Champaign this weekend.

And if you notice Corso turning conservative in his middle years (41), it's part of a master plan. Lee says he can afford to pay closer to the vest because his talen t is better. Like everyone else, he prefers a sure victory to an exciting loss.

Hello RUSTY JONES
Goodbye rusty cars.

Volleyball leaders in MSL both triumph

by JEFF NORDLUND

Rolling Meadows' girls volleyball team continued to have things its way in the Mid-Suburban League South Thursday, remaining undefeated at the expense of winless Conant.

The Mustangs (8-0) beat Conant (0-8), 20-7, 20-10, to remain atop the South Division standings. Only Barrington, the North Division leader, has as good a conference record.

In other MSL action Thursday, Barrington downed Palatine 20-11, 20-17; Hersey edged Wheeling 20-14, 4-20, 21-19; Arlington routed Buffalo Grove 20-6, 20-13; Prospect slipped by Elk Grove 20-17, 12-20, 20-11; and Forest View Beat Schaumburg 20-8, 7-20, 20-11.

Maine West defeated Waukegan East 21-19, 11-20, 20-11 in a Central Suburban League South match.

"I HAVE TO RESPECT Conant's team a great deal," Meadows coach Elaine Wissen said after downing the Cougars for the second time this season.

"They've improved considerably since the first meeting with us. They're more knowledgeable and have put together a better offense.

"We played a poised game, though, and I was especially proud of the play of our reserves," she added.

Leslie Ahr, Patti Macklin, Miriam Quinnett, Wendy Ulesich, Karen Locascio and Sue Vlamis were the Mustangs' top performers.

TERRY BAGLEY, Carrie Prewitt, Katrina McClanahan and Sue Meinhard spirited a strong Barrington defense ,as the Fillies (8-0) beat Palatine-5).

Hersey (6-1) sent Wheeling (4-4) to a three-game loss by rallying for the final 11 points of the third game to salvage a 21-19 win. Janice Labellarte and Elisabeth Frye were strong for the winners, while Mary Galow of Wheeling also turned in a good performance.

"We led most of the third game," Wheeling coach Donna Dubbelde said later. "We just couldn't get that last point, and they caught up and passed us."

ARLINGTON (4-4) evened its conference record by defeating Buffalo Grove (2-6) in two straight games. Judy Satikas and Lori Kessenich were strong for the Cardinals, while Joyce Gallagher paced Buffalo Grove.

Jeannine Hahn led Prospect (6-2) over Elk Grove (2-6), winning the third game 20-11.

"Jeannine had an outstanding game for us," Prospect coach Sandy Pifer said later. "Serving, setting and spiking — she does everything well for us. Over-all, the team has been playing very well this year."

Forest View (6-1) took three games to defeat Schaumburg (4-4) to keep within striking distance of South Division-leading Rolling Meadows.

$5,000 price for Benson fight

Record fine for Abdul-Jabbar

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had a pain in the pocketbook to go with his broken hand Thursday when the National Basketball Assn. fined the Los Angeles Lakers center a record $5,000.

Abdul-Jabbar was socked with the fine for punching out Milwaukee Bucks rookie Kent Benson in their NBA opener Tuesday night. Benson, an all America from Indiana, suffered a mild concussion and lacerations when he was decked.

The 7-4 Abdul-Jabbar sustained a fractured bone in his hand that sidelined him for an indeterminate period. In view of the injury, however, he was fined instead of suspended.

NBA COMMISSIONER Lawrence F. O'Brien viewed videotapes of the game and consulted reports from officials before rocking the league with his decision.

"The fact that a single, swift act of violence resulted in injuries to two players points up the danger and recklessness of such action," said O'Brien. "Conduct of this nature will not be tolerated and will be punished accordingly.

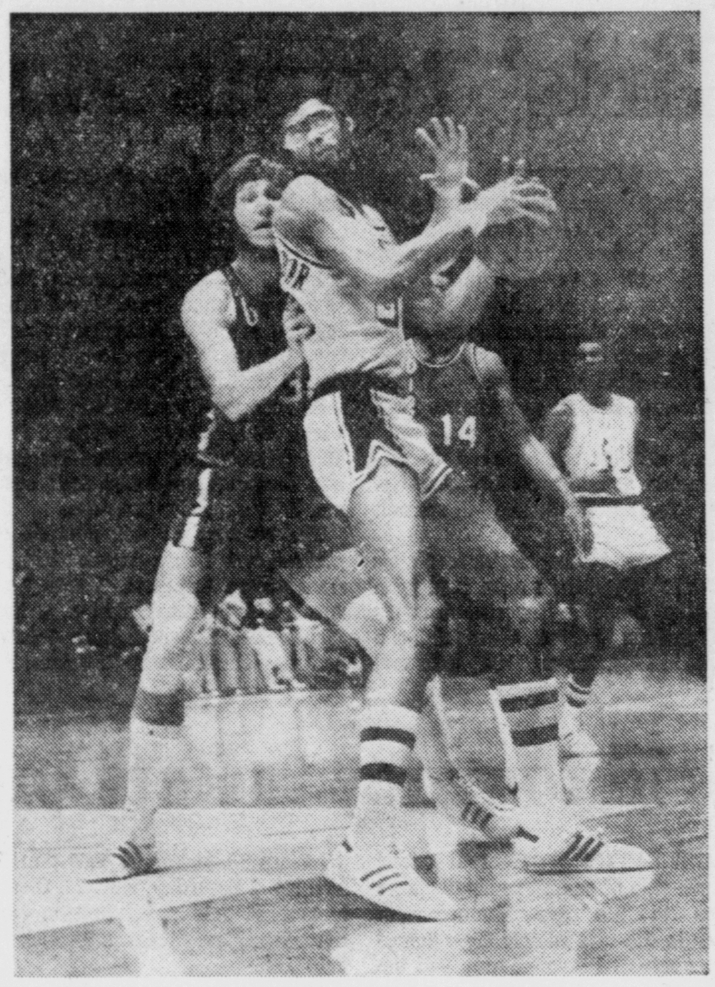

"Every player in the NBA is on notice that I oppose fighting during games, no matter what the provocation. I will use all the powers of my office to prevent violence within the NBA."

The largest previous fine was the $2,500 apiece levied against Maurice Lucas of the Portland Trail Blazers and Darryl Dawkins of the Philadelphia 76ers for fighting during last season's championship playoffs.

"I HAD DECIDED that immediate suspension was appropriate for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar until I received news late yesterday of his injury," O'Brien said. "That development limited my options and consequently I decided on this fine."

According to O'Brien, the game tape showed Benson elbowing Abdul-Jabbar several seconds before the Laker center floored his opponent.

"Unfortunately, the violation took place far from the ball and the game action," said O'Brien, "and therefore escaped detection by the referees: Whether or not Abdul-Jabbar was fouled, however, there is no excuse for a premeditated punch from the side."

SKY HOOKER KAREEM Abdul-Jabber, shown in action against Portland's Bill Walton, is probably in a little more pain today. For punching out Milwaukee's Kent Benson earlier this week, Jabber suffered a broken bone in his hand and is sidelined indefinitely. NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien also fined the Los Angeles Laker center $5,000 for the unscheduled boxing exhibition.

Hersey's soccer reversal rolls on

by KEITH REINHARD

The Mid-Suburban League soccer circuit still hadn't run out of surprises by Tuesday night.

Hersey, which up until a couple of weeks ago had not won a contest, got an unassisted first half goal from John Benisek and then coasted to a 3-0 triumph over visiting Barrington in a North Division encounter.

The Broncos had taken an 8-4 slate into the contest.

"WE SWITCHED our whole offense around several weeks ago and shored up our defense," explained Huskie coach Walt Jasinski. "There's been a big turnaround in the club ever since then."

A turnaround and then some. Hersey followed the adjustment by winning their first game of the year, 4-2 over Buffalo Grove. Then they tied a strong Palatine team 1-1 and followed it up with a stunning 2-2 stalemate against powerhouse Fremd.

Tim Swan tallied for Hersey in the second half on a pass from Jeff Prelletz and John Mantanes rounded out scoring with a penalty kick. Don King preserved the shutout for Hersey in the net, making 18 saves.

In another key contest Tuesday, Elk Grove edged Prospect 1-0. The triumph allowed the Grenadiers to tie for first in the final South Division ratings although Forest View, on the strength of just one more goal over the entire season, earned the right to clash with Wheeling for the MSL title.

TIM MIMNAUGH powered in the game's only goal, on a corner kick in the second half. Gren goalie Jeff Campbell was credited with the shutout.

Other contests had Wheeling routing Fremd, Palatine toppling Buffalo Grove, Hoffman Estates winning and St. Viator losing.

The Wildcats stunned the Vikings 5-0 behind a pair of goals by Oneil McCalla. Joe Khoury, John Byckowski and Mike McQuivey also got in the scoring as Wheeling toppled Fremd for the second time this season.

PALATINE DOWNED the Bison 5-2 with Dave Simons blasting home a pair of scores and Bob Curylo, Randy Stewart and Andy Deutschmann each supplying one for the winners. Curylo also had a pair of assists.

The Hawks toppled West Leyden and the Lions lost to St. Joseph, both by 2-0 verdicts. Hoffman goals were booted home by Mark Chalmers and Carl Edstrom and John Cambora was the miserly Hawk goalie.

In sophomore combat Palatine and Buffalo Grove played to a scoreless tie, Fremd blanked Wheeling 3-0 and Barrington dumped Hersey 2-0.

The most important soph contest was played at Prospect where the Knights nipped the Grenadiers 2-1 on a pair of goals by Tim Vail to wrap up the South Division title.

It was the second time this season Prospect's sophomores had stopped Elk Grove and they finished up with an unbeaten 4-0-4 record.

Girls' tennis state district matches today, Saturday

by VIC NOVAK

Area high school girl tennis players will take the first step toward fulfilling their state final tournament dreams with state district tournaments today and Saturday.

The top four singles and doubles finishers in each district advance to the girls state final championship Thursday through Oct. 29 at Dist. 214 high schools.

Local athletes are entered in district meets at Prospect, Hoffman Estates, Crystal Lake and Glenbrook North.

The Prospect meet features an almost all-Daily Herald area field with Arlington the title favorite. Entries here include Forest View, Buffalo Grove, Hersey, Maine West, Palatine, Fremd, Sacred Heart, Maine North and the host school.

IN SINGLES competition, the seeding is 1. Nancy Webber from Maine West, 2. Lisa Smart from Buffalo Grove, 3. Janet Haberkorn from Arlington, 4. Chris Richey from Arlington, 5. Beth Wagner from Hersey, 6. Sheryl Hettman from Palatine, 7. Denise Jenderzak from Maine West, and Vicki Moore from Palatine. Smart, Richey, and Moore are the Mid Suburban League's respective first, second, and third singles champions.

The seeding for the doubles competition is 1. Laura Sanders-Kim Broderick from Arlington, 2. Lisa Young-Ann Hoffman from Palatine, 3. Sherry Weber-Beth Klawitter from Arlington, 4. Julie Schwen-Carla Rub from Palatine, 5. Laura Riforgiato-Rhonda Welch from Buffalo Grove, 6. Kelly McCoy-Cindy Sarna from Forest View, 7. Trish Gosch-Chris Murphy from Sacred Heart, 8. Teresa Jasonowicz-Sue Lundquist from Palatine.

Sanders and Broderick are the MSL's champion No. 1 doubles team. Teammates Sherry Weber placed second at No. 1 singles and Klawitter was on the conference's second place doubles squad.

AT THE HOFFMAN Estates District, (to be held at both Lake Park High School campuses) Rolling Meadows, Conant, Elk Grove, Slhaumburg, Lake Park, Elgin, Elgin Larkin, and Hoffman Estates are the area entries.

Early seeding ratings for singles show Kate Swaya of Hoffman Estates (1), Kay Wenzel of Elgin (2), Kathryn Griner of Elgin Academy (3), and (4) Jenny Jimenez of Rolling Meadows. Swaya was second in the MSL's No. 1 singles competition. Wenzel lost only twice during the regular season while being undefeated in Upstate Eight play.

The doubles seedings are Cindy Keagle and Candy Kastning of Rolling Meadows (1), Pam Shanon and Penny Thompson of Elgin Larkin (2), Michelle Baron and Gloria Chlebanowski of Fenton (3), and Debbie Kuhn and Dawn Wiebe of Rolling Meadows (4).

Stevenson is at Glenbrook North. Sue Jaeger of Stevenson is the defending state singles champion.

HOW THE CAR FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK PROTECTS YOU FROM PEOPLE WHO DON'T.

As you may have observed, the roads of America are filled with people who make dumb mistakes.

Volvo was designed so you don't have to be the one to pay for them.

You get fade-resistant power disc brakes on all four wheels. To help you stop short of trouble before you run into it.

You get rack and pinion steering to help you steer clear of difficulties presented by others. And a spring-strut front suspension designed to hold the car steady and level even during a drastic evasive maneuver.

To avoid trouble, you have to see it. Which is why Volvo gives you 3,830 square inches of tinted glass, allowing you over 90% of your total horizontal field of view.

We've even tackled the problem of the guy who installs himself behind you at night with his brights on. We've installed a glare reducing outside rearview mirror.

And if you should ever run into trouble, Volvo can help you walk away.

Crumple zones front and rear absorb the impact of a collision before it reaches the passenger compartment. And the passenger compartment itself is surrounded by six steel pillars which have supported seven tons without buckling.

As long as you drive a car, you're going to be surrounded by people who do thoughtless things.

So protect yourself.

Surround yourself with a Volvo.

Ski Show '77 first attraction of new season

The first big ski weekend of the year continues today when Ski Show '77 resumes a four-day run at McCormick Place.

It is a skiers' opportunity to find out everything they need to know about all aspects of their favorite sport, from what's new in equipment and fashion to where the best travel bargains are. In fact, the show's theme, "The Great Ski Update," tells the story.

Ski Show hours are 4 p.m. to midnight today, 1 to 11 p.m. Saturday, and 1 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

IN ADDITION to providing the latest information on skiing, the Ski Show also offers entertainment, including Wayne Wong starring in Wild Bill O'Leary's Ski Rock Show, "Freestyle — Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," on the Great Ski Machine.

Then there are the ski movies in the Samsonite Film Festival Theater, which will run continuously, featuring two hours of skiing action.

And there will be music at the Ski Show, both for listening and dancing, in The Brewery, where you can also enjoy a cold Bud and Alpine food.

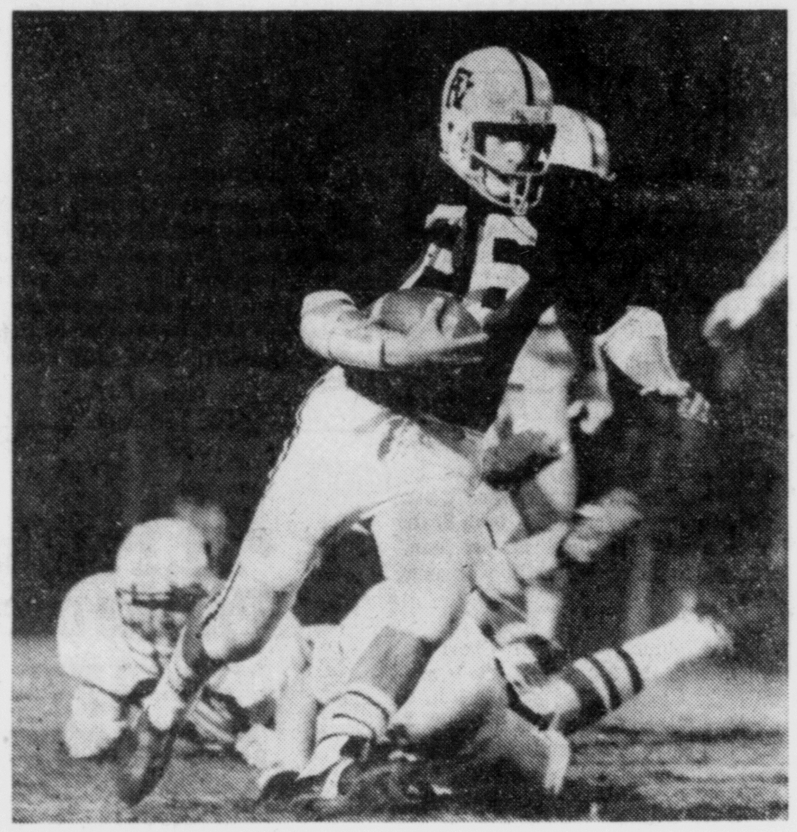

One of this year's new features of the Ski Show is "Colonel" Milt Cully's auction of $10,000 worth of the newest "showcase" skis, boots, skiwear, trips and season passes each day — today and Saturday at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 5 p.m.

EQUIPMENT AND CLOTHING will also be the main attractions at the Giant Swap and Good Used Ski Sale, where you can both recycle your own outgrown gear and obtain big bargains while outfitting the family.

The new skiing equipment will all be on display in the Skiing Equipment Center, where "Professor" Doug Killham will explain the latest developments and present 106 new skis, 30 new bindings and 52 new boots. He'll also answer questions such as, "How do I buy equipment that fits?"

The fashions, meanwhile, will be introduced by Barbara Alley, fashion editor of Skiing Magazine. The models will show off the fashions in action of The Great Ski Machine, and 12 of the top skiwear manufacturers will be represented.

IF YOU WANT tips on ski instruction, you'll be able to obtain them, both for Alpine and Nordic skiing. Clif Taylor, originator of the Elan/GLM revolution, will enroll you in his new "30 seconds to Ski Better" course, and Sven Wiik will conduct Ski Magazine's "Help Yourself Ski Touring" course. The latter will also provide an opportunity to try out equipment by Edsbyn, Kastle, Rossignol, Silva, Swix and Nors*quip, and enable skitourists to pick up Kodak's '77-'78 Medals for Miles Log-books.

BREAKWAY THREAT John Miscevich of Forest View will be under the scrutiny of the host Schaumburg Saxons Saturday in a South Division scramble.

Rhode Island governor refuses Sunday racing

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy Thursday said he will not permit Sunday horse racing — a last ditch proposal to save Narragansett Park — even if it kills the sport in Rhode Island.

"As long as I am governor of Rhode Island, there will be no Sunday racing in this state," Garrahy said. "My concerns have been expressed to the racing commission.

"Sunday is a day which we all set aside for some kind of rest. I don't think we ought to have gambling taking place on Sunday. I find it personally offensive," Garrahy said.

THERE IS NO Rhode Island law banning Sunday racing but tracks have never operated that day because of opposition from governors.

Officials of the financially-ailing Pawtucket track and representatives of its horsemen Thursday asked the State Racing Commission for a four-day racing schedule, from Friday through Monday.

Robert Gentile, commission counsel, said the request will be considered at an 11 a.m. Monday hearing.

"We have taken into consideration every conceivable way to help that track," Garrahy said. He said competition from other nearby tracks and a decline in interest may be killing the operation.

NARAGANSETT resumed racing this montha fter a one-year shutdown. The Legislature gave it a larger share of the betting dollar in an effort to keep "the sport of kings" alive in Rhode Island.

"Narragansett is averaging $235,000 a day, but it needs to do $300,000 to break even. You don't have to hold a Harvard degree to know things can't continue this way much longer," said James V. Rigney, a member of the board of governors of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

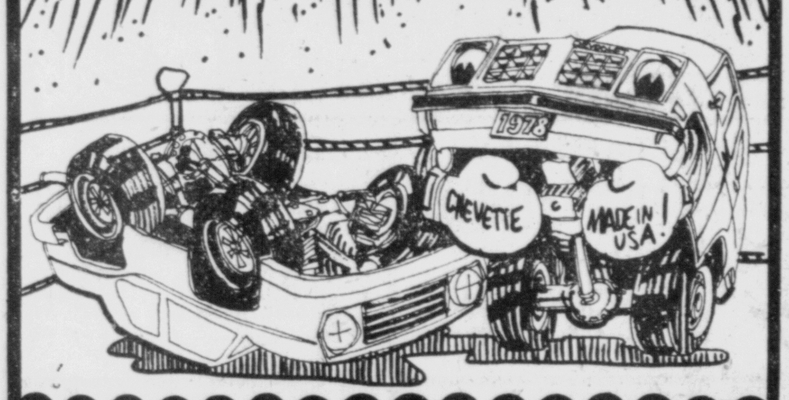

Track president J. Alden Dooley said weekend racing — with meetings on Friday and Monday nights and Saturday and Sunday afternoons — makes sense.

Use solvents to remove pine tar

Doyle K. Getter

Your auto and you

Auto Column: Would you advise me how to remove pine tar from a car without removing the paint?

E. SALE, Fern Park, Fla.

Mr. Sale: A dishwater detergent solution will remove elm sap and might work on pine tar. If it doesn't, however, there are several tar removers on the market. If you can't find it in an auto supply store try the body shop of a new car dealer.

Auto Column: I have a 1972 Maverick that makes a clunky sound when I slow up to stop. It seems to be on the driver's side in the rear. Any ideas?

GRACE M. ZIEGLER, Peoria, Ill.

Ms. Ziegler: A mechanic will have to road test your car to determine where the clunk is coming from. It could be a U-joint or something as simple as a bad shock absorber or worn rubbers in the leaf springs.

Auto Column: My 1977 Thunderbird drives smoothly with a cold engine but after eight to ten miles there is sometimes a clicking noise. When I slow down to take a corner and give it gas, there is a clunking noise. Several mechanics have been unable to cure the noise but all agree it must be in the transmission because when the transmission is cold and thick, there is no noise. When the car and fluid heat up, the noise begins.

RAYMOND MOSON, Chicopee, Mass.

Mr. Moson: It could be in the transmission but it also could be in the rear axle where the grease heats up and thins somewhat. Again, this is one of those problems where you have to identify where the sound is coming from. Then a mechanic will have to tear it apart and find the cause.

Auto Column: Is there any way all of the transmission fluid can be drained from the transmission? The usual way, adding new clean fluid to some dirty fluid seems useless to me although the filter is replaced. I have a 1973 Buick LeSabre.

MR. S.K., Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. S.K.: The only way to drain a transmission completely would be to take the transmission out of the car, remove the converter from the transmission and pour the fluid out of the converter. The proper way, and it has proved effective for years, is to drain as much of the fluid as you can, change the filter and refill with new fluid.

Auto Column: My 1967 Chevrolet Belair with the 250 engine has a bad oil leak. I used to get 700 miles to a quart of oil, now I get less than 400. I had the valve cover and side gaskets replaced but that stopped nothing.

LARRY GALANTOWICZ, Hamburg, N.Y.

Mr. Galantowicz: Parking your car at night over some spread out newspapers should tell you quickly whether it is an external leak. Then search until you find where it is leaking. If it is an internal leak, your dealer can make a vacuum test of the valve guides that will tell him whether they are holding. A cylinder compression test will tell whether the rings are at fault.

BMW'S 5301 sedan features a sports car performance with luxury car comfort. The six-cylinder engine delivers adequate gasoline mileage. Base price is $12,495.

Elements of excellence in BMW

by DOYLE K. GETTER

There is nothing new or revolutionary about the engineering, suspension or engine of BMW's 530i, an intermediate size four-door luxury sport sedan, yet every element of this well-made German-built car contributes effectively to making it a stand-out performer.

The ride is soft and well dampened but the car will corner as hard as you care to push it. The 530i has sport car performance and handling with luxury car comfort, combining those two opposite characteristics to a degree not often matched.

A fully independent suspension system helps the 530i maintain its composure under severe conditions. Speeding over bumps and pot holes, you can hear the wheels bouncing but no jolts come through to the passengers. The car's road holding ability is outstanding for such a soft ride.

THE FRONT AND rear styling has been subtly modified this year to soften it overall appearance while retaining the unmistakable BMW no-nonsense look.

It's that look that bothered me before I first drove a BMW some years back. It still doesn't turn me on like some excitingly-styled American sporty cars but now I know what's under a BMW's skin — a true sport car in lamb's clothing.

The car will carry five adults without crowding and there is still a spacious trunk to hold over 21 cubic feet of luggage. The individual front seats can be manually adjusted six ways and the steering wheel can be moved in or out to adjust for any driver.

The base price of $12,495 includes power steering, power four-wheel disc brakes, a four-speed manual transmission (an automatic is available), velour seat upholstery, AM-FM stereo radio and air conditioning. The only options on the test car were metalic paint and a hand-cranked sunroof.

A TURBINE-SMOOTH 182-cubic inch six cylinder engine powers the 530i. It is fuel injected and burns so clean that a catalytic converter is unnecessary. It uses either regular or no-lead gasoline. The fuel tank holds 16.5 gallons.

I averaged 15.2 miles per gallon of regular gas in 217 miles of normal city and suburban driving and 21.5 miles per gallon on a 101 mile highway drive at 55 miles an hour. The EPA rates the car at 14 miles per gallon in city driving and 23 miles per gallon on the highway.

"Hi, I'm Rusty Jones. I'm the one new car option you can buy that will actually appreciate in value."

Why? Because I'll still be protecting your new car from rust when it becomes your old car. And everybody knows a rust-free car is worth more at trade-in time.

My guarantee is the best in the business. I'll stay with your new car day and night, winter and summer, no coffee breaks, no vacations...no rust, for as long as you own it.

Hello RUSTY JONES™ Goodbye rusty cars.

Early detection cardinal rule in fight against cancer

by GORDON F. SCHWARTZ, M.D.

(Second in a series)

PHILADELPHIA — Despite tremendous advances in medical science in the past generation, cancer remains one of the most dreaded, but not always the most dangerous, afflictions of mankind.

This fear persists, in part, because of a widely held "folk belief" that once the diagnosis of cancer has been made, nothing can be done and only doom awaits the affected person.

It is especially tragic that many women remain convinced that cancer is incurable, for early diagnosis has led to more frequent cures from cancer of the breast, cervix and other organs. Unfortunately, part of our failure to reduce death rates from cancer even further has been the difficulty in getting women to play a more active role in their own health affairs.

The first step in the fight against cancer is frank, intelligent discussion of malignant disease. The cardinal rule is: "Early detection means higher likelihood of cure."

USING BREAST cancer as the example, involving women in their own health care by teaching them breast self-examination is an important advance. Brochures are available from groups such as the American Cancer Society which teach women this technique, and no breast examination by a physician is complete without mention of self-examination.

There is no doubt that a woman who examines herself at monthly intervals is the most concerned, and often the most skillful, examiner she can have. After a short period of practice, a woman becomes quite familiar with the physical characteristics of her own breasts, and she is often able to detect subtle changes which may be not as noticeable to her physician.

Although one in 15 women will develop breast cancer, this risk is not distributed equally throughout the population. It is essential that women become aware of factors in their own medical history, or in their family background, which might place them in a higher risk category.

For example, history of breast cancer in a mother or sister, may more than double the risk. Also, if a woman has had certain benign breast conditions, the risk of developing breast cancer later may increase.

EVERY WOMAN should consult with her own physician about the important facts in her own situation. In this way the proper interval for breast examination can be determined in order to insure the earliest possible detection and the best possible medical care should the need arise.

Overzealous, if well intentioned, journalists are also responsible for many misconceptions about cancer. The recent headlines devoted to discussions of the theoretical risks of the X-ray detection technique, mammography, are an example.

Instead of noting the achievements of mammography in aiding the earlier detection of breast cancer, considerable notoriety was given to the alleged evil effects of radiation exposure. Unfavorable and undeserved publicity such as this has led many women to avoid mammography despite specific and prudent indications for its use.

There are, to be sure, many honest and sincre controversies which surround the treatment of breast cancer, as well as other illnesses, with knowledgeable physicians championing apparently opposite forms of treatment.

THE PROSPECT of mastectomy, the loss of a breast, also keeps some women from seeking attention despite a known lump in the breast. Women should realize that there are forms of breast cancer which require much less drastic and radical procedures than have been the custom in the past, particularly in those cases which have been detected in their earliest stages.

Early detection is only the first half of the battle against cancer. Of equal importance is prompt and adequate treatment once cancer has been suspected or diagnosed.

In recent years, women have become more active in sharing medical decisions with their physicians. The average patient may not be medically sophisticated enough to make these important therapeutic decisions without expert advice. Yet, all too often, physicians forget that the patient herself must make the final decision, since only she may give the doctor the final go-ahead for a treatment plan or sign the operative permit if surgery is indicated.

MORE AND MORE patients are seeking a "second opinion" regarding proposed treatment. No physician truly worthy of a patient's trust honestly objects to a patient seeking the opinion of another specialist to confirm his own.

Although death and disability from cancer continue to be major health problems, there need not be the sense of helplessness and resignation attached to this diagnosis that formerly had been so frequent. Knowledgeable women, taking responsibility for their own health care, working closely with their physicians, are the best defense against this dreaded disease.

Preschool sets special program

Jiminy Cricket Preschool in Wheeling is offering a new program called "Learning Together" for children 2 to 3 years old and their mothers.

The innovative educational program will be conducted in four Saturday sessions from 10 to 11 a.m. on Oct. 29 and Nov. 5, 12 and 19 at the preschool. The cost is $10.

The children will be exposed to a variety of increasingly complex creative play experiences led by Marge Soltis, nursery school teacher. While they are involved in the activities, their mothers will observe them and discuss their progress with Karen Rogeberg, a trained parent educator.

Enrollment is limited to 12, and preenrollment is required. Interested persons may register by calling 541-5577.

Churchwomen to assemble Saturday

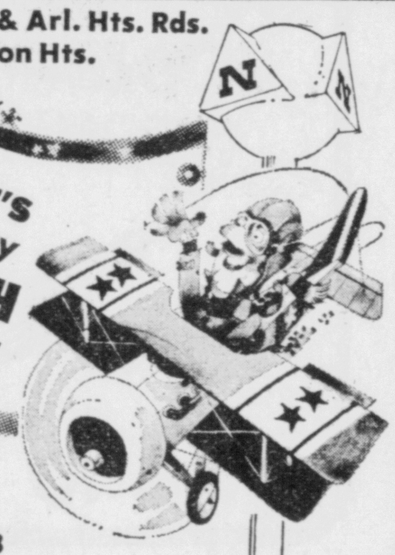

Attending the 40th Annual convention of the Northern Illinois Sistrict of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League will be Mildred Mohrman and Gwen Uding of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. The convention will be held Saturday at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago.

Theme of the convention is "Growing, Glowing, Going," in accordance with LWML's objective to develop and maintain a greater mission consciousness among the women of the church by aiding in mission inspiration, mission education and mission service. Keynote speaker will be Florence Montz, Bismarck, N.D.

LWML, the only international organization of women with the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, was organized in Chicago in 1942 and now has more than 200,000 members.

The doctor says

Perspiring vital body mechanism

I would appreciate your comments on relief from anhidrosis. The absence of both sensible and insensible perspiration creates a body temperature of 103 degrees plus in 80 degree weather. Would orthostatic hypotension with blood pressure levels of 70 over 50 being common contribute to this uncomfortable situation?

The low blood pressure and absence of sweating probably are caused by the same abnormalities. Individuals with these two disorders also often have problems with sphincters that may affect bowel or bladder function to some degree.

We think these are related to abnormalities in the sympathetic nervous system possibly involving more than one area. I think you should be evaluated by a neurologist if you have not been already.

Meanwhile, sweating is an important mechanism to cool the body. The insensible perspiration alone enables us to be air conditioned with evaporative cooling. You will need to take every advantage of mechanisms to keep the body cool that you can.

So I am sending you the Health Letter number 7-6, Body Temperature and Fever, to give you a summary of how the body heat is regulated. Others interested either in fever or cooling the body who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Perhaps you may be interested in my case. I am a male in my 98th year and have been having trouble with my feet swelling. My doctor said that he could not do anything, that the swelling was due to my advanced age. I raised the foot of my bed about six inches and within a month the swelling had subsided. I do not indulge in alcohol and eat the plainest food and otherwise am in good health.

Congratulations on your 98 years. Swelling of the feet can have several different causes, including nutritional problems, heart disease, liver disease, varicose veins and others. What to do about it often depends upon what causes it.

It is fluid, and fluid tends to run downhill. As long as the feet are below the level of the heart they will tend to swell if a person accumulates excess fluid from any cause. Elevating the foot of the bed at night might help get the fluid out of your feet but it simply shifts upward in the body which may not be so good. It is likely to accumulate in the loose skin over the back. The shifting of the fluid does not mean that it has been eliminated from the body.

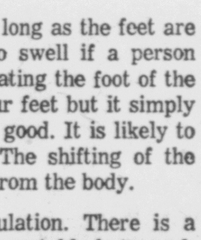

O'd age alone does not cause fluid accumulation. There is a reason. The underlying problem may not be correctable but usually there is some help for it. If it is heart failure, heart medicines (the digitalis group), diuretics to stimulate the elimination of salt and a salt-restricted diet often help. If it is kidneys, liver or varicose veins, other measures may be indicated.

Trick or treating is your child's decision

To Parents: If your preschooler didn't particularly enjoy last year's trick-or-treat expedition, and seems hesitant about going again, don't talk him into participating this year. After all, you taught him never to accept candy from strangers and not to ask others for treats. Also, he might feel timid about walking around in the dark — even if you, or a trusted substitute, are nearby. Lots of children don't like ghosts, hobgoblins or people in masks. It's perfectly normal. As an alternative to trick-or-treating, consider a small party for him and a few playmates. There you can easily control the amount of sweets he eats. A brief party, where you lead them in simple, ordinary group games, ought to cost you no more than a few apples. Plan to leave the lights on and forget the scary games bigger kids like. Another bonus: The lucky children at your party, unlike those who'll need to wear jackets outside, will have a chance to show off their halloween costumes.

Right. Several other metals — zinc, brass or galvanized metal — also react with acids or salts in the pickling process to cause undesirable effects. The Ball Corp. reminds makers of preserved food also to steer clear of enamelware cracks or chips.

Schaumburg Court Upholds Wife-Beating

Women's ERA Proponents Support Ruling

In a land-mark decision a highly regarded judge ruled in favor of wife-beating in Schaumburg, a northwest suburb of Chicago.

Mrs. Denise Zunker charged that her husband, William Zunker had repeatedly and severely beaten her in public. A high court official, Mr. Frank Randazzo, reported that Mr. Zunker adequately defended his actions. In a counter argument, he accused Mrs. Zunker of poor service, an over-exuberance for charging, and a penchant for mixing partners.

In a surprise move a spokesperson for the Women's Rights Movement applauded the decision saying that it will eventually lead to legalizing husband-beating.

The high court official, Frank Randazzo is the president of Woodfield Racquet Club; the judge is an erstwhile line judge and professional tennis and racquetball instructor at the Same club. Mr. Randazzo hopes that Spouse-Beating becomes a way of life — so long as it's done in the proper environment. He thinks his club with a brand new discoteque, a lush cocktail lounge, and a variety of special events (ask him about the 25th Anniversary surprise) is the place. Of course there is the site of the wife-beating — 10 air conditioned tennis courts and 8 air conditioned racquetball courts — the only courts in which many of you will ever beat your wives.

Networks tune in as viewers tune out

In what admittedly is a premature look at this season's viewing habits, it appears people are watching less television and being more selective about what they watch in comparison to recent years.

A. C. Nielsen reports the national average household viewing level for September dropped to five hours and 55 minutes a day from six hours and three minutes a day in September 1976.

The weather, fewer people per household and poor programming are a few of the things that influence viewing habits. The fact there are fewer program alternatives in prime time than ever before, meaning fewer half-hour shows and more programs running an hour or longer, also has something to do with the new trend.

If the Nielsen forecast proves true during the remainder of the season, the television industry will have its poor programming product to blame.

ALTHOUGH IT IS too early in the season for research to back up such speculation, it would seem television viewers are having some difficulty finding shows they can get enthusiastic about.

Most often television viewing during prime time is a matter of compromise. The television is insant companionship and entertainment and even if there is nothing in particular worth watching, many will leave their television sets tuned in to the least objectionable program.

However, by the sound of morning comments around the coffee machine lately, people are having problems this season finding even a least objectionable show worth their attention. Many viewers are becoming more selective to the point they are switching off their sets and resorting to reading, family entertainment and even sleep as alternatives to filling their time.

One indication viewers are being more selective about television is that most of the season's top rated shows consistently have been old staples and specials.

Nielsen's national list of the top 10 television shows each week most often have included returning hits such as "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley," "All in the Family," "Six Million Dollar Man," "Charlie's Angels," "Baretta," "What's Happening," "Three's Company," "Alice" and "60 Minutes."

SPECIAL PROGRAMMING such as ABC's "Washington: Behind Closed Doors," CBS' "Elvis in Concert," NBC's Ali-Shaver boxing match and the World Series also have appeared in the weekly top 10 as have some special movies.

Few new shows have appeared in that elite group aside from "Soap" and "Betty White" on occasion.

It looks as if the new network offerings really haven't made it with most viewers who are willing to stick by their long-time favorites and periodic specials.

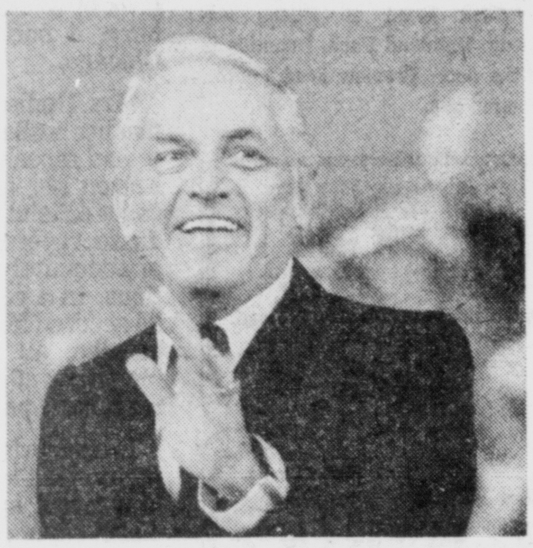

The networks have been expressing concern over the failure of many of their new shows. Bound to the tired molds of the nostalgic "Happy Days" and the sex-appeal adventures of "Charlie's Angels," the networks have been unable to develop anything fresh and new to break the established viewer preferences.

ALTHOUGH THERE ARE exceptions, most new shows are doing miserably in the ratings. The real bombs, headed for cancellation, include "Big Hawaii," "Oregon Trail," "Dan'l Boone," "The Fitzpatricks," "San Pedro Beach Bums," "Operation Petticoat," "CHiPs," "Logan's Run," "Tony Randall" and "Wonder Woman."

Even some veteran shows are in trouble. A shakeup in the cast of "Good Times," the loss of John-Boy in "The Waltons" and an already tired story line in "Fish" have doomed those shows.

In all, current television doesn't look too bright. It's no real victory either for networks or viewers to boast that the juvenile comedy "Happy Days" and the sex appeal minus talent of "Charlie's Angels" are what appeal to most viewers.

There has to be a better answer, and the networks, happily enough, are busy looking for it in mid-season replacements, some of which are the best news of the whole season:

TED KNIGHT RETURNS TO TV

• NBC started out the new season with the No. 1 rated show of the week of Sept. 5, a special entitled "James at 15," about an adolescent who fantasizes. It's returning as a regular series Thursday at 8 p.m. and is an uncommon match of good writing, acting and producing without being cocky.

NBC also did well in the ratings with a pilot about a family of circumstance, "Mulligan Stew," which returns as a series beginning Tuesday at 8 p.m. and isn't bad for another family show.

NBC also has decided to revive "CPO Sharkey" beginning today at 7 p.m. as a regular series and is working on other new shows including the new "Laugh-in" as a weekly offering.

You can understand NBc's hustle better when you remember it already has canceled "Sanford Arms" and that most of the network's new shows are in bad ratings trouble.

• CBS' replacement shows are something to get excited about. The husband and wife pantomime team of "Shields and Yarnell," which were a ratings success last spring in a limited run, will return later this year as a regular series.

Although MTM's "Betty White" show has been a big disappointment for many, and "Lou Grant" has been slow, both shows probably will survive and improve. They will be joined by Ted Knight, also a former "Mary Tyler Moore" graduate, who stars as the operator of an escort service in a pilot that airs Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

CBS also will be trying out Demond Wilson (of "Sanford and Son") as the head of a household who reappears after seven years in the pilot "Baby, I'm Back" aturday at 8:30 p.m. and "Rhoda's" former husband, David Groh and Joan Hackett in a domestic comed entitled "Another Day" early next month.

Other limited run spring series that CBS may bring back as regular shows include "Sam," the adventures of a police dog and "Szysznyk," with Ned Beatty as coordinator of a youth center.

• As for ABC, the network is making the strongest rating show with its new entries and ultimately will be concerned with the replacement of just a few.

"Operation Petticoat" and "San Pedro Beach Bums" are likely casualties with replacements unknown. Officials aren't talking just yet.

The thing to remember, whether you are watching less television or not, is the program choices a month from now won't be the same as they are now.

The great network minds realize there is a danger of turning off viewers and viewers seem to be realizing there isn't much worth watching.

By Thanksgiving, regular show offerings may be completely changed. Old shows may be given new time slots, a whole host of new specials and movies will be scheduled and many programs will be canceled.

You may change your mind about television by turkey time and the networks are doing their best to make sure you do.

Miller, Preves lead solo night at orchestra hall

Review/music

by BILL GOWEN

Thursday was the night of the soloist at Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

After three consecutive nights of concerts taped for television, music director Sir Georg Solti took the remainder of the week off to prepare for next week's three Mahler concerts.

Associate conductor Henry Mazer was on the podium and he used the opportunity to turn the spotlight on two of the orchestra's most honored members.

FRANK MILLER, the principal cellist since 1959 and Milton Preves, leader of the viola section since 1939 were the featured artists in the 1896 Richard Strauss symphonic poem called Don Quixote, a theme with 10 variations based upon the Cervantes tale.

Miller played the role of Don Quixote, the hero who, losing his mind, imagines a series of knightly adventures.

Preves' viola solo depicts Quixote's squire, Sancho Panza, as the pair leads the orchestra through a battle with windmills, a search for the ideal woman, a ride on a wooden horse through space and the knight's final defeat.

The orchestra gave one of its typical Strauss performances — full-bodied yet lyrical with solid playing from the brass, woodwinds and percussion.

BUT IT WAS Miller's night as he dominated the stage from a concerto platform. One need look no further than artists such as he and Preves to sense the leadership that has made the Chicago Symphony Orchestra among the world's greatest.

The opening half of the concert featured one of the rare Chicago appearances of Hungarian-born pianist Peter Frankl.

When Frankl had completed a most lyrical performance of Beethoven's Third Concerto, one wonders why he has not been a guest here since 1971.

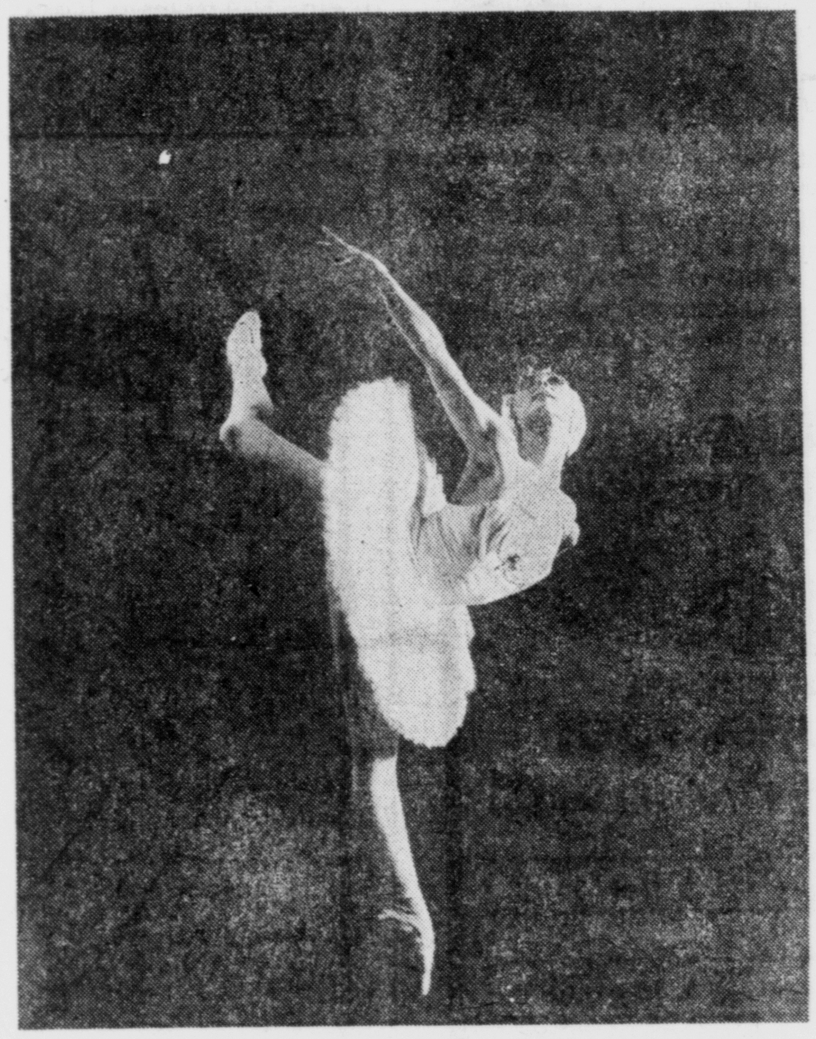

Frankl and maestro Mazer chose a chamber music approach to the 1800 masterpiece, Beethoven's first venture into the heroic style later found in his third and fifth symphonies.

Other than an expansion of the first movement cadenza, Frankl chose a scaled-down approach. Mazer's accompaniment was with an orchestra reduced by more than 20 players.

MAZER AND THE orchestra opened the program with a robust performance of Samuel Barber's "School for Scandal" overture, a work that premiered in 1933.

Barber is one of our country's best, yet least appreciated, composers with operas, symphonies, ballets, chamber works and choral music to his credit.

Thursday's overture was just a taste of the potential of Barber and many of his fellow American composers if they are just given a chance by musical organizations in the United States.

THE ISRAEL BALLET will perform at the Auditorium Theatre Saturday and Sunday. The company will feature guest artist Anna Arango. Tickets are available at the box office.

Children's theater to begin 3rd season

Northwest Center Children's Theater is beginning its third year in a new location, the Tradewinds Cinema at the intersection of Barrington and Irving Park roads, Hanover Park.

A new musical, "Which Witch is Which?" is the first production there, scheduled to open Tuesday for eight performances. Curtain times are 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays through Nov. 3. Admission is $1.75 per child, with one complimentary sponsor ticket for every 10 paid admissions. Reservations are being taken at 849-2677 or 677-5207.

Markov to debut Sunday in Chicago

Albert Markov, Russian violinist and soloist, will make his Chicago debut at Orchestra Hall at 3 p.m. Sunday, appearing at the combined concert of the Chicago Festival Symphony Orchestra and North Side Symphony Orchestra.

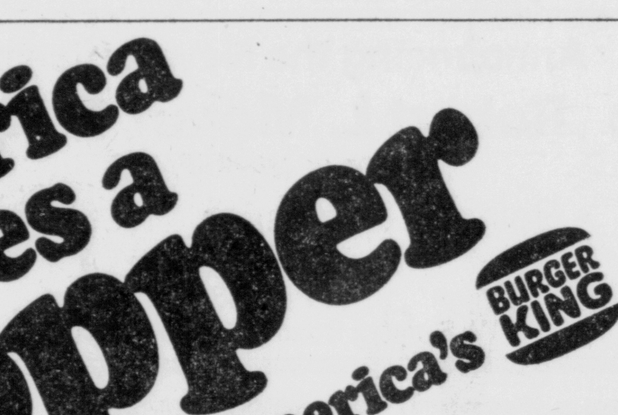

Markov, relatively unknown in this country, is reputed to have been one of Russia's foremost artists before emigrating to the United States in December 1975.

Tickets to the concert are $4-$7.50, available at Orchestra Hall box office.

Win at bridge

2 NT bid proved best

Playing standard 16-18 point notrump and simple Stayman, what should North bid in response to South's notrump opening? He has three choices. Pass, two clubs and two notrump.

We make two clubs the last choice. Even if we find a 4-4 spade fit, we may make as many tricks at notrump as at spades. Pass is our second choice. We have nine points but they are just about the worst possible. Still, we do have nine points and therefore recommend a raise to two notrump.

Our best choice is the winner here. South will go on to three and should bring it in. Here is the play against a diamond lead.

South wins with dummy's jack and goes after spades. If East plays low, South will take the double finesse. He will continue spades. East will get in and lead a second diamond. South will worry about a possible five-card diamond suit, but the diamonds turn out to be 4-3 and South collects three spades, two tricks in each other suit and a game contract.

Ask Andy

Britain home of modern tennis game

Andy sends a World Book Year Book to Mary Albrecht, 12, of St. Paul, Minn., for her question:

WHO INVENTED TENNIS?

Tennis today is definitely one of the world's most popular participant sports as well as being a favorite spectator event. Millions of us are playing the game both indoors and out on asphalt, carpet-type material, concrete or clay courts. We play either singles or doubles on a court that is 78 feet long and 27 feet wide — with 4½ feet added to the width of a doubles court.

The wonderful game of tennis started in France in the 1200s. It was called "jeu de paume" which means game of the palm. In the olden days a ball was batted over a low net with the palm of a player's hand.

Modern tennis started in 1873 when a man in England named Maj. Walter Clopton Wigfield introduced a game that was very much like the one we play today. The game was played on a grass court and called sphairistike, a Greek word meaning playing ball. It wasn't long, however, until everybody started calling the game lawn tennis.

In 1877 the All England Croquet and Lawn Tennis Club, located in a London suburb called Wimbledon, sponsored its first major tennis tournament. This tournament has since become the unofficial world championship for men's and women's singles and doubles.

An American sportswoman named Mary Ewing Outerbridge introduced tennis in the United States in 1894 when she purchased equipment from some British army officers in Bermuda. Her first courts were set up on the Staten Island Cricket and Baseball Club in New York City.

In 1881 the U.S. National Lawn Tennis Assoc. was established and the first men's championship tournament was held that year in Newport, R.I. Today the group is called the U.S. Tennis Assoc.

In 1900 an American player named Dwight Davis donated the Davis Cup. This trophy now goes to the man who is recognized each year as the top international tennis player.

Men's championship competition at Wimbledon had been going only seven years until the ladies decided they wanted to play the game, too. The first championship competition for women was held in 1884. In the United States, championships are held annually in Forest Hills, N.Y. Men's competition began there in 1881 with women's competition starting in 1887.

International tennis has been largely a professional sport since 1968.

Andy sends the 1977 World Book Science Year Annual to Kevin Quincey, 12, of Beaver Dam, Wis., for his question:

HOW DOES A WATER SOFTENER WORK?

We call it hard water when it contains lots of minerals. Hard water forms scale in pipes, boilers and other equipment, and it doesn't dissolve soap readily.

Lots of people solve the hard water problem by using water softeners. One type is called the ion-exchange process. Water is filtered through minerals called zeolites. As water passes through the filter, the sodium ions in the zeolite are exchanged for the calcium and magnesium ions in water, and the water is softened. After household softeners become exhausted, a strong solution of salt is passed through the filter to replace the sodium that has been lost.

A lime-soda process calls for the addition of soda ash and lime to water in a tank. Insoluble compounds settle to the bottom of the tank when the chemicals combine with the water's calcium and magnesium ions.

Send your question on a postcard to Ask Andy in care of The Daily Herald, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Illinois 60006, making sure to include your name, age and address. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Brookfield Zoo visitor complex campaign target

A multimillion dollar fund-raising campaign to collect money for a new visitor education complex at Brookfield Zoo has been started by trustees of the Chicago Zoological Society.

Corwith Hamill, chairman of the board of the society which manages the zoo, said the campaign will be aimed at raising $15 million for capital improvements, including $3.3 million for a visitor/education complex to be located at the zoo's south entrance.

The complex, planned as the first phase of the capital improvement program, would include an auditorium for lectures, classrooms for school groups and zoo visitors, library facilities and conference rooms. An underground visitor center and three upper levels would be part of the complex.

The zoological society is aiming its fund-raising campaign at businesses and already has received pledges totalling $167,000 from the Field Foundation of Illinois, Inc.; Northern Trust Company Charitable Trust; Container Corp. of America and the Korhumel Foundation.

Lee Korhumel, vice president of Korhumel Industries, is heading the fund-raising effort as chairman of the zoological society's development committee.

Ex-cops charged in civil rights case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five former Houston, Tex., police officers were charged Thursday with conspiring to violate the civil rights of a Mexican-American prisoner they allegedly beat and shoved to his death in a bayou.

The officers were accused of striking Joe Campos Torres, 23, a laborer, while he was handcuffed May 5-6, and taking him to his death spot at Buffalo Bayou instead of to a hospital as directed by a jail official.

A federal grand jury in Houston returned a four-count indictment against Terry W. Denson, Stephen Orlando, Joseph J. Janish and Louis G. Kinney. Named an unindicted co-conspirator was Glenn L. Brickmeyer.

THE JUSTICE DEPT. also filed an "information" — a charge made without grand jury action — accusing Brickmeyer of striking Torres while the prisoner was handcuffed and conspiring to violate his civil rights.

The case became the subject of widespread protest among Mexican-American leaders when Denson and Orlando were convicted of misdemeanor charges.

A Mexican-American delegation recently protested to Terrence Adamson, personal assistant of Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, that the verdict meant the two might serve no more than a year in jail. The federal civil rights charge carries a maximum life imprisonment when death results.

Bell announced in February a new policy to prosecute serious civil rights violations regardless of whether the defendant has been adequately prosecuted under state law for the same action.

But before you do, find out what the sam hill you're doing.

Insulating is too important to you and to your home to take any unnecessary chances. This free booklet gives you the information you need to make an intelligent choice.

It'll answer just about every question you can think up about this suddenly hot subject. It compares the various types of insulation, tells you where they work best, and even tells you which parts of the job you could do yourself.

To get your copy just call my phone number. I'll mail your booklet, or bring it over myself, if you like. It could save you hundreds of dollars on the installation, and thousands in fuel bills.

Let's get together.

Sawdust is a good mulch for garden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — That old sawdust on your workroom floor may look like just another mess, but it can be recycled as garden mulch this time of year.

It works better if it is well rotted, or if you add a cup or two of ammonium sulfate or sodium nitrate to each bushel of fresh sawdust before spreading it on the garden, says the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Consumer Information Center.

A booklet about this and other mulches is available for 50 cents from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 131E, Fueblo, Colo. 81009. Ask for "Mulches for Your Garden."

K of C Tootsie Roll sale to aid mentally retarded

The Knights of Columbus will conduct their annual Tootsie Roll campaign to raise funds for more than 350,000 mentally retarded children and adults in Illinois.

This year, the drive will be held Nov. 4 - 5 and the Knights of Columbus are urging citizens to support this fund-raising activity by making a donation in exchange for a Tootsie Roll.

A number of local councils have in previous years allocated a portion of the proceeds from their fund raising campaign to the Clearbrook Center. Last year more than $2,800 was given to help the center provide services for 280 handicapped children and adults enrolled who reside primarily in Maine, Elk Grove, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

The Knights of Columbus volunteers will be easily visible at street corners and in shopping centers both days, wearing yellow aprons and caps and carrying Tootsie Roll canisters and candies.

Income tax cut likely by spring to aid investment, ease inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An income tax cut by late spring or summer apparently now is more likely because of weak business investment and a payroll tax-inflation squeeze on consumers, administration and private economists said Thursday.

Commerce Sec. Juanita Kreps said, "A case could be made that the third quarter of 1978 would be a good time for a tax reduction."

Mrs. Kreps said consumer spending will be weakened even more next year because "Social Security tax rates will increase and inflation will be steadily pushing individuals into higher tax brackets."

PRESIDENT CARTER may be forced to seek "an emergency tax cut" for business and consumers by May 1 if economic conditions continue at their present rate or weaken further, said chief economist Jack Carlson of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Kreps did not specify an amount in a speech prepared for delivery in Pittsburgh, but Carlson said "anything under $25 billion" would be insufficient.

Mrs. Kreps and Carlson pointed to the Commerce Department's latest report that the national economy expanded only 3.8 per cent last summer.

From July through September, the Gross National Product after removing inflationary forces would have declined except for government programs and consumer spending for energy consumption, health care, insurance and other services.

One reflection of the pressure on consumers is the indication food purchases were reduced apparently because money was diverted from groceries to pay for higher-priced energy for transportation and air conditioning during the unseasonably hot summer.

"NEW GOVERNMENT spending is carrying the economy," Carlson said. "It is obvious that the government was holding up the recovery. More than half the growth in GNP was a result of government spending."

Mrs. Kreps said only the reduction in tax withholding rates for individuals that took effect in June and the administration's public works program prevented even worse economic developments last summer.

Mrs. Kreps said the buildup of the public works programs and larger than usual income tax refunds in April will help the economy at first. "But after midyear, the current stimulus programs will begin to taper off."

Carlson said the President's attempt to tie tax reduction with the enactment of his tax revision program is unrealistic.

"Tax reform for business purposes will come too late," Carlson said. "Clearly an emergency tax cut will be needed."

Woodfield marks 6th anniversary

It began with Sears, Roebuck & Co. planning to build a store somewhere in the Northwest suburbs and three villages vying to annex the land it would stand on. But today, it is the world's largest indoor shopping center.

Woodfield opened Sept. 9, 1971 with 215 stores, the mall having been annexed to Schaumburg and a name derived by combining that of Sears' chairman Gen. Robert Wood and the Field of Marshall Field & Co., the second major store to back the mall.

As Woodfield celebrates its sixth anniversary today, 97 per cent of its 2.2 million square feet are occupied by 237 tenants with plans for new stores still afoot, said mall spokesman Ralph Lewis. Between 20,000 and 100,000 people visit it daily, he said.

"WE THINK WE'RE in a very healthy condition economically," said John Maloney, president of the Woodfield Merchants Assn. and manager of the mall's Sears' store.

Total sales volume for the mall totaled more than $258 million last year, compared to $240 million in 1974 when 30 new stores opened.

Lewis said sales are expected to be higher in the year ahead.

Ten new stores have opened at Woodfield in the last six months, Lewis said, and these new operations represent a different type of store than the mall has seen in the past.

"There's a new and aggresive high quality type of merchant coming in," Lewis said of such stores as The Goldsmith, a newly opened custom jeweler, and the soon to open Bigsby & Kruthers men's wear store.

House OKs $1.05 raise in minimum wage by '81

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Thursday passed a compromise $1.05 an hour increase in the minimum wage containing disappointments for both labor and business and sent it to President Carter for expected quick approval.

The measure passed on a 236-187 vote despite an effort to send it back to a conference with the Senate to make additional small businesses be exempt from coverage.

The current $2.30 an hour wage, set in 1974, would go to $2.65 on Jan. 1, and increase annually to $2.90 and $3.10, leveling off at $3.35 on Jan. 1, 1981. The U.S. Labor Dept. estimates by that time some 5 million people would get the wage.

The present exemption from the Minimum Wage Act of firms with annual sales of $250,000 or less would increase to $275,000 on July 1, 1978, climb to $325,000 July 1, 1980 and reach $362,500 on Dec. 31, 1981.

Additionally, the measure readjusts the "tip credit" provision which currently gives waiters, waitresses, porters and other service employes only half of the minimum wage. The bill would give them 55 per cent of the minimum starting in 1979 and go to 60 per cent a year later.

Labor was disappointed when both the House and Senate voted to eliminate a key provision calling for annual automatic increases in the wage level pegged to average factory pay.

Come to First's Autumn auto loan special where loan rates are tumbling down

It's true, while everything else is going up, the Autumn leaves and First's new auto loan rates have come tumbling down. The First National Bank of Des Plaines has lowered auto loan rates on all new 1977 and 1978 models.

And that's not all. At First, you see the full loan cost — to the penny — before you sign. No surprises afterwards. And we'll fit your repayment schedule to your budget.

You can also count on First for low cost credit life insurance and monthly payments that can be automatically deducted from your checking account. You can even arrange a loan before you go car-shopping so you can grab a good deal on the spot.

With the way things have been going up lately, it's about time something came down. So stop in soon and take advantage of it. See us for low used car loan rates, too.

Pan Am planning cuts in prices

Pan American World Airways said Thursday it plans to cut the cost of Trans-Pacific travel in half next year by introducing in that area the same sort of budget fares no woffered between New York and London. The new fare plan would reduce the price of scheduled, reserved-seat flights to Tokyo to as little as $259 from the U. S. mainland and $199 from Hawaii. Pan Am said it intends to start selling Pacific budget tickets immediately, subject to approval by U.S. and foreign governments, even though the first flights under the new fare are not scheduled to take place until Jan. 15.

Loans for energy-saving devices

A House-Senate conference committee decided Thursday to make $5 billion in federal loan funds available for people installing efficient home heating systems, insulation and other energy-saving devices. Some $2 billion of the money would be loaned through banking institutions at normal interest rates and individuals could borrow up to $2,500 under that program.

Handicapped equality years away

Two Federal officials say handicapped people will have to wait a long time for improvements that would allow them equal treatment with other passengers on airplanes and mass transit systems. The officials told a National Conference on Employment for the Handicapped Wednesday there is still no uniform interpretation of regultions on transporting disabeled people after 17 years of "interagency ball-passing" and stalling tactics by private industry.

Europe charged with dumping steel

National Steel Corp. Thursday charged manufacturers from six European nations with dumping cold-rolled and galvanized steel sheets into the United States at "less than fair value." National Chairman George A. Stinson told a news conference the action came as a result of President Carter's pledge to aggressively enforce anti-dumping laws. The complaint, filed with the U.S. Treasury Dept., charged that the dumping margin varies from 47 per cent to slightly more than 20 per cent. The nations named were Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom.

Commerce Sec. Juanita M. Kreps said Thursday the Federal government should find ways to allow joint ventures within the steel industry as one way of ensuring survival of smaller producers. "It has been suggested that jont ventures at selected levels of production might be one means of strengthening the steel industry," she said.

Mobil says abandon energy plan

Mobil Oil Corp. is calling on President Carter and Congress to abandon all efforts to draw up a national energy law until there is a much broader public understanding of the issues involved. In a full-page newspaper advertisement to appear beginning Friday morning, Mobil said "continued confusion" holds the dangerous potential of creating new divisiveness by attempting to rush into an energy program too quickly. In particular, Mobil said, there is the danger of pitting the people of energy-producing states against the citizens of the energy-consuming industrial states.

Dow rallies late for 2 point gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, aided by blue-chip bargain hunters, rallied from a two-year low Thursday afternoon to register an irregular gain. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average, down more than three points at the outset, rallied to gain 2.60 points to 814.80. The Dow fell 8.31 points Wednesday to its lowest level since 794.55 on Oct. 2, 1975.

Because the Dow is down about 190 points for the year, analysts said bargain hunting was normal. The market also was helped by traders replacing borrowed shares sold earlier at higher prices.

The New York Sock Exchange common stock index added 0.12 to 50.77 and the average price of a share rose 7 cents.

Big Board volume totaled 20,520,000 shares, down from the 22,030,000 traded Wednesday.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. EDT totaled 22,451,680 shares, compared with 24,968,188 Wednesday.

Prices were higher in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange and over-the-counter issues.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 0.18 to 113.82 and the average price of a share added 2 cents. Declines topped advances, 305 to 232, among the 858 issues traded. Volume at that time totaled 2,200,000 shares, compared with 2,440,000 Wednesday.

Tips for handling broker problems

Jane Bryant Quinn

Staying ahead

NEW YORK — If you're having a dispute with your stockbroker, there are several possible ways of handling the matter. Going to court is only the last and most drastic solution. The vast majority of problems are settled through a series of less formal methods and procedures. Here are the steps to take.

Write a leter of complaint to the head of the brokerage office. Customer complaints can lead to all kinds of problems for the brokerage firm, so responsible managers answer them pretty fast.

Often, complaints arise from misunderstandings. Dividend checks get fouled up; errors occur in transferring an account from one firm to another; novice investors may not realize that it takes a week to get the stock they bought. Problems like this can usually be cleared up just by calling the broker.

Other complaints are more serious. For expample, you might charge that the broker advised you to invest in risky securities, even though he knew you were retired or a widow living on a fixed income. If this is true, and you have little peronal knowledge of investments, you may be in a position to sue to recover losses.

THE BROKER MAY say that you urged him to make risky investments, in which case the firm may notify you that it sees no merit to the complaint. In that case, there are other places to write.

• The stock exchanges have stricf rules as to how member firms should conduct themselves. They require brokers to know their customers and make suitable recommendations and brokerage offices to supervise the conduct of employes.

If you have a complaint that can't be resolved locally, and the broker is affiliated with tht New York Stock Exchange, write to NYSE Investor/Broker Liaison, 55 Water St., New York, N.Y. 10041. For the American Stock Exchange, it's the ASE Rulings and Inquiries Dept., 86 Trinity Pl., New York, N.Y. 10006. For over-the-counter brokers, one of the 14 district offices of the National Assn. of Securities Dealers (check your phone book), or the NASD Surveillance Dept., 1735 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20016. These surveillance bodies cannot order you to be repaid, but their investigations may prove helpful to your case.

• To press for recovery of market losses, see a lawyer. He may think you should sue in federal court under the securities laws. If the suit involves no more than broker negligence, a suit in state court, or arbitration proceedings, may be called for. Even if you go to arbitration you'll want a lawyer because the procedure is carried out under state law with a full panoply of witnesses, documentation and cross-examination.

• When opening a brokerage account, the paper you sign often calls for binding arbitration of disputes (except those involving violations of federal securities laws, which can always be taken to court). You may choose the arbitration service offered by the New York or American stock exchanges, or the National Assn. of Securities Dealers: or the independent American Arbitration Assn. (140 W. 51st St., New York, N.Y. 10020).

INVESTORS SOMETIMES believe that stock exchange procedures may be biased in favor of brokerage firms. But the exchanges say that, if anything, their panels bend over backward to understand the customer's problem. Which arbitration forum you choose may depend on cost and convenience.

The NYSE goes to only 18 cities, while the others will convene in your town or a city nearby. The AAA is a little more expensive. On a $10,000 claim, it charges $300, compared with $240 at the NYSE, $205 at the AMEX and $120 at the NASD.

Next month, the exchanges will present plans for a simplified nationwide small-claims procedure, covering claims of less than $2,500.

Have you any idea how much America's colleges mean to you?

It will be today's college-trained minds that will solve tomorrow's problems: Energy. Transportation. Health. City planning. International relations.

But only if you help. America's colleges are in deep financial trouble. The help you give today will make tomorrow's world a better one.

Make America smarter. Give to the college of your choice.

The Graduates get promoted to a big-time television show

by SCOTT FOSDICK

"The guy who looks like a holdover from the German youth brigade is Jim Staahl."

That was how Jim Fisher introduced Staahl at Chicago's Ivanhoe Theater last week, and the description couldn't have been more apt.

Staahl's short blond hair and direct blue eyes are often lovable, but more often they combine with a rugged jaw to form a visage only Hitler could love.

Staahl, 30, is the tallest of The Graduates (formerly The Graduates of Second City). Fisher, 35, is the shortest, and in between the two is Tino Insana, 29.

THIS THREE-MAN guffaw will be one of the acts on "The Great American Laugh-Off," a comedy special airing Saturday on NBC in the 10:30 "Saturday Night Live" slot. Like many of the comedians on "Saturday Night Live," the members of The Graduates got their starts at the fountainhead of improvisation, Chicago's Second City.

Where does Second City get all the talent? What exotic environs does it glean to find the Alan Aldas, Valerie Harpers and John Belushis just waiting to hit the big time?

In the case of Jim Staahl, it didn't have to look any further than Arlington Heights.

Jim is the son of two stalwarts of Arlington Heights' community theater, Lu and Gustav Staahl. As far back as Jim can remember he has been yanked up on stage, playing bit roles in his parents' plays.

AS A CHILD ACTOR in local productions, and later in several productions at Arlington High School, where he graduated in 1965. Jim says he never even considered making his living by performing. But now, he and his fellow Graduates are on the verge of making it big. Really big.

"Really big" these days means having your own weekly television show. Danny Thomas' production company is now planning a one-shot pilot program around The Graduates. It should air sometime next spring, and if it wins the ratings game, The Graduates will host their own weekly comedy show next fall.

Jim, Jim and Tino are not newcomers to television. They've done a dozen Merv Griffin shows, one Tonight Show and several local California shows.

THE KIND OF COMEDY The Graduates do seems made for television. It's quick, simple and relies heavily on visuals — gestures, funny faces and props.

Last week the young, primarily black audience that flocked to the Romantic role calls Mary Martin to stage

by LOUISE SWEENEY

For someone who's played the Venus de Milo, Annie Oakley, the Baronness von Trapp, Peter Pan, and the gal who washed Ezio Pinza out of her hair, Mary Martin is acting rather sedately lately.

Back on stage after an eight-year hiatus, the musical comedy star with the wide brown eyes and heart-shaped face is no longer belting them out — even when she breaks into a little circus song in her new play, "Do You Turn Somersaults?" which opens Tuesday at the Studebaker Theatre in Chicago. And the bright voice with the built-in pang draws a wave of warm nostalgia from the audience, but she won't let them clap.

An audience at a Kennedy Center performance in Washington, D.C. complained about that: "We wanted to applaud, but you cut it off, and we don't think that's fair." But she told them, "I'm not playing Mary Martin as a singer — save your applause till the end of the show. Otherwise it's out of character."

THE CHARACTER she plays in "Somersaults," a romantic comedy by Aleksei Arbuzov, is a somewhat flaky but endearing Russian lady, a beshawled patient in a sanitorium run by the play's only other character, a widowed doctor (Anthony Quayle). It is a touching performance, and when she says the final line to him — "Funny, I think all my life I've been coming to meet you"—there is a special poignancy for the woman who writes of her own marriage that way. In her autobiography, "My Heart Belongs," Mary Martin writes of the tender care I received for 30 years" from her late husband, editor-producer Richard Halliday.

"I was afraid to go back on the stage without Richard, really afraid," she says of her latest role. "We were in everything together, for years. He was always there to come back and say, "Yes, this is good . . .'" Stage fright hadn't bothered her at all, even in the beginning of her career as a star, when she unfurled herself from a lynx coat and crooned the show stopper "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." But this time, she says, "I was very nervous. I felt like: 'Why on earth did I say yes to any of this? Why didn't I stay home?' (in Palm Springs). You try to think of anything, and your mouth gets dry, and your lips stick to your teeth, and you have butterflies in your tummy."

Although she loves it now, and is taking the play on tour she was initially reluctant. "I didn't care whether I ever went back to work again." She says, "I thought my desire for performing was over" after she lost her husband.

One thing she knew: she didn't ever want to do a whopping big musical again. "I finally figured out that I had pushed the last 10 years, maybe 15 years, maybe forever, because when you're doing musicals, you sing a lot of songs, do a lot of dancing, and no matter if I had no sound . . . I would go on and push it out, just go on and get it out. And I didn't realize that takes its toll. The idea of pushing that hard again does not intrigue me. Anything big I'd never do again because I don't want to perform with my voice unless it's absolutely at its peak, whatever the heck that is, and one can't keep it." So after turning down scripts for years, she was lured by the challenge of this quiet play about an autumn romance.

SHE PLUNKED herself down on a gold couch at the Watergate Hotel and talked a blue streak about this role, her family, her passion for acting. "At five years old I started singing at the fireman's ball (in her native Weatherford, Tex.), and I never was not on . . . I don't understand anybody who doesn't want to be in the theater if they can . . . I'm on a lot, and when I'm not on, I'm on a lot," she said cryptically.

She has short, curly hair that's a pale strawberry blonde, and the familiar face has a youthful exuberance about it. At one point in our conversation, to illustrate a point, she suddenly flops sideways on the couch like a Raggedy Anne doll, then springs back, grinning. She is wearing a white silk blouse printed with red roses and lilacs, over cream-colored pants. Apricot toenails glint through the mesh and gilt mules she is wearing on her feet. She confesses to a weakness for Joy perfume, anything chocolate, poppies, Chopin, the Beatles, swimming and needlepoint. On the couch beside her is a red needlepoint pillow decked with a bespectacled lion, a birthday gift for long-time friend and publicist Ben Washer.

MARY MARTIN returns to the stage after an eight-year hiatus, starring with Anthony Quayle in the romantic comedy "Do You Turn Somersaults?" opening at the Studebaker Theatre Tuesday for three weeks. Tickets are available at the box office and Ticketrons.

Mary Martin, for whom interviews are as common as showers, is a challenging interview. One of the main reasons may be that she's said it all already, or much of it, in her bouncy new autobiography "My Heart Belongs," whose index reads like "Who's Who in the American Theater."

She began the book in 1959, when her husband and author Morris West were working together on a play. "Morris said, 'You've got to write these stories down,' and when I left for a vacation in Bermuda he gave me a great big yellow pad and pencils. . ." And so the star of "One Touch of Venus" and "Lute Song" and "I Do! I Do!" began the book which wasn't finished till nearly 25 years later, after the passing of her husband, Richard, in their Brazilian jungle home.

Twice married, the first time to the Texas father of her actor son, Larry Hagman, she says, "In marriage . . I think you have to truly lean over, the furthest angle you can get, without falling down to make it work, because there are so many things that can go wrong. You can take an awful lot if you love someone . . ."

Then Peter Pan, the five-time grandmother, talks about the visit she's expecting from her daughter, Heller Demerritt, and her granddaughter, Mary Devon Demerritt, who has the same wide brown eyes and heart-shaped face as her star grandmother. "I've had, I really think, a terribly wonderful life, a happy life."

Great, yet little-known recordings are available

DISCovering classics

Record companies are not known for their charity in presenting seldom-performed pieces of music or relatively unknown artists among their classical releases.

The classical market is a select one in the first place and, second, why release the offbeat when the 30th version of the Beethoven Fifth Symphony or the Tchaikovsky piano concerto is a sure thing?

But there is hope, classical music listeners. With smaller companies like Nonesuch and Vox plus the availability of European performances to some of the American major labels, great performances by little-known musicians and of rarely-heard works are in the stores. Careful shopping can unearth many a treasure.

TWO EXAMPLES are the continuing Vox series entitled "America Sings" and the first (finally) nearly complete recording of Aram Khachaturian's "Gayne" ballet music on RCA.

The "America Sings" series has been a project of Gregg Smith and his chorus called, naturally, the Gregg Smith Singers. Eventually the series will comprise more than 20 discs, covering American choral music from Pilgrim times to present. The entire project has been subsidized by the Ford Foundation as a contribution to the American Bicentennial.

The set at hand covers 1920 to 1950 and includes choral works of Charles Ives, William Schuman, Aaron Copland, Elliott Carter, Virgil Thompson, Walter Piston, Henry Cowell, Samuel Barber, George Gershwin and Leonard Bernstein, among others. A "Who's Who" of the giants of American music of this century.

Gregg Smith has obviously studied this music for years and the performances are all first-rate. In addition to his own chorus he has enlisted the assistance of the Columbia University Men's Glee Club, the Texas Boys' Choir and the Peabody Conservatory Concert Singers.

"WE HOPE THAT this album will help bring an awakening to the choral mastery of these outstanding composers, as well as helping the cause of our American 20th Century musical past," says Smith in his liner notes.

The liner notes, by the way, are one of the virtues of this set. Each composer and his music is fully documented by the conductor and the narrative places each piece of music in historical perspective.

The "Vox Box" is rather flimsy and one of my discs was badly warped. But these are minor flaws when you realize the three-disc set lists for only $11.95 and is available at discount for considerably less. The catalog number is SVBX-5353.

RCA, IN ISSUING the British recording of the Khachaturian "Gayne" music on a two-disc set, is also to be commended. Not only is the set a bargain ($8.98 list) but it introduces a dynamic young talent in the Armenian-born conductor, Loris Tjeknavorian.

Tekhavorian conducts the National Philharmonic of London, an orchestra utilized mainly for recording purposes, and puts on quite a show with this music from his native country. The "Gayne" music is, of course, the toe-tapping kind, the music which gave us "Sabre Dance," among other tidbits.

But the "Sabre Dance" is but one of 24 selections performed here, quite a bonus from the usual "Pops Concert" offering of three or four excerpts. All the familiar episodes are included, of course, from "Sabre Dance" to the "Lullaby," "Dance of the Rose Maidens" and "Lezghinka."

The 1942 score literally jumps from the loudspeakers and while the entire ballet isn't included virtually all of it is, enough to satisfy the most devout fan of Khachaturian. The set (RCA CRL-2 2263) fills a noticeable gap in the catalog.

Fonda portrayal in 'Julia' stirring

"Julia" starring Jane Fonda, Vanessa Redgrave and Jason Robards; directed by Fred Zinnemann; produced by Richard Roth; released by Twentieth Century-Fox. Rated R.

by DAVID STERRITT

Review/movies

"Julia," the story of two brave women in a time of trial, features the most stirring performance I have ever seen Jane Fonda give. It is a tough portrayal but a nuanced one, emphasizing the difficult virtues of character over the easy virtues of prettiness. It shouts out the "no apologies!" attitude that Lillian Hellman — the person played by Fonda — likes to give herself in memoirs such as "Pentimento" and "Scoundrel Time." Yet it hints at a delicacy and vulnerability that Ms. Hellman herself rarely owns up to in print.

The plot is taken directly from a central episode of the popular "Pentimento," which ranges about the Hellman memory and dishes up tales of varying pertinence and interest. Julia (name changed to protect the innocent) was a wealthy childhood friend of the author who grew into a brilliant student (of Freud, no less) and dedicated radical (willing to live in, and not just talk about, poverty).

The film shows Lillian and Julia chumming around as girls, going their separate ways, and keeping in sporadic touch over the years. Then comes a turning point: Julia has consecrated her life to antifacism, and Lillian's help is needed on an international errand. So the famous author, all talk when it comes to politics, finds herself entrusted with a funny-looking hat and a mysterious box of candy and a hidden $50,000 that must be smuggled into Germany for bribing resistance workers out of jail.

THIS DANGEROUS mission is the movie's main thread, carrying elements of suspense and a likable humor that springs from Lillian's nervous version of erring-do. We also pay long visits to Julia as a girl, watching her intimate friendship with Hellman grow, along with her expansive awareness of the world around her. And we see the poignant results of her militancy, with peeks into the feelings of the comparatively uninvolved Lillian.

All this is likely material for movie treatment, complete with uncontroversial politics (antifascism) and a female "buddy movie" angle. Further, the cast reads like a Hollywood dream — Fonda as the centerpiece, Vanessa Redgrave as the gorgeous but dedicated heroine, Jason Robards as dashing Dashiell Hammett (the man in Hellmans' life), Maximillian Schell as the eccentric emissary who recruits Hellman's help, Hal Holbrook and Rosemary Murphy as a couple who don't have anything to do except be cute in a couple of scenes.

The producer is Richard Roth, and the screenwriter is Alvin ("Bobby Deerfield") Sargent. And to cap it off, director Fred Zinnemann, whose credits range from "High Noon" to "Day of the Jackal."

Unfortunately, the result is too careful and calculated for its own good. The cinematography by Douglas Slocombe is consistently lovely, and so sharp that no TV screen will ever adequately reproduce it when it finally comes to the home tube. But the beauty gets monotonous after a while, like a two-hour parade of picture postcards.

Equally boring is the saintliness of every single character. Julia herself is the most exasperatingly perfect creature since Superman. Then there's feisty Lillian, crusty ol' Dash, helpful pals Alan and Dottie . . . When a minor character insults Lillian in a restaurant you loathe what he says, but you want to shake his hand for briefly relieving the sameness.

This is not to belittle the story itself, or to mock its attitudes — the horror of Nazism is powerfully evoked, however quickly and perfunctorily, and the people of the film behave laudably under hard circumstances, which doesn't always happen at the movies these days. One wishes, though, that the filmmakers had been less overwhelmed by the good qualities their picture deals with. They might have made a more spontaneous movie that was as human as it was humane.

VANESSA REDGRAVE and Jane Fonda star in "Julia," the story of two women fighting fascism in a dangerous mission.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing the area, plus capsule summaries and comments. Films reviewed are rated excellent, four stars; good, three stars; fair, two stars and poor, one star.

"Oh God!" — A clever script, a charming George Burns as God and a totally believable John Denver as a modern day Moses who carries God's message to the people makes for a delightful, entertaining film. (PG) ★★★

"You Light Up My Life" — Didi Conn shines as an aspiring singer-songwriter who muddles through romantic and career conflicts and comes out a winner in the end. Old fashioned elements reworked in a "now" setting. (PG) ★★

"Lincoln Conspiracy" — An imagination stretcher supposedly based on "new evidence" that Abraham Lincoln was assassinated as the result of a conspiracy headed by high government officials. (PG).

"Star Wars" — Director George Lucas ("American Graffiti") pulled out all stops in mounting this space fantasy about intergalactic warfare, and the dazzling filmmaking, technical wizardry and rousing adventure make for one of the most spectacular entertainments of this or any other year. Not a heavy, heady "2001" trip, it aims to entertain, and the sky is the limit. (PG). ★★★★

The graduates promoted to TV

Ivanhoe to see modern blues singer Al Jarreau received an unexpected bonus: The Graduates, live.

Very live. Jim, Jim and Tino never stop moving as they careen through impressions of "Three Construction Workers Doing Shakespeare," a school that teaches you how to drive while drunk and a hilariously funny dentist's chair sketch.

NONE OF THEIR sketches "sound" very funny. They don't tell very funny jokes, and their subject matter isn't all that creative. But their timing, their faces and especially their loony voices somehow wrench wave after wave of laughter out of an initially cool audience.

Jim Staahl is the foundation of the act, the sounding board. He is the straight man; the other two bounce their exaggerated impressions off of him.

His likeness to the archetypal Nazi stormtrooper makes him the perfect dentist. He is also convincingly macho as director Sam Peckinpah, in a beautiful slow motion take-off of Peckinpah's violent film style.

Best of all is Staahl's impression of "The Reverend Doctor Mister Billy Graham," a sketch he says he's been doing since his Arlington High days.

BACKSTAGE between shows, Staahl reminisces about those days, and talks about his hopes for The Graduates.

"I like television. Television is obviously king. Years ago it was movies, but not now."

The Graduates won an Emmy for their locally produced comedy special, "The First Five Days," the group's New Year's prediction of what 1975 would be like. Despite their success with the medium, Staahl is apprehensive about trying to do television comedy on a weekly basis.

"All our friends who are on Saturday Night Live talk about the extreme pressure of doing 90 minutes of live television each week.

"On television, on a talk show, we aren't usually given a set. So it doesn't work as well. When people watch T.V., they don't use their imagination."

"WHAT'S WORSE, there isn't much rehearsal time for television, so the camera often misses shots, and doesn't focus on the person telling the joke.

"They're usually one person behind us," Staahl says.

Despite his eagerness to have his own television show, Staahl says what he most enjoys is performing in front of a live theater audience.

"Finding something spontaneous with the audience. I guess it's the unexpected. To me that's the kick . . .

"Doug Murphy was the drama teacher at Arlington High. He still is. He liked people to bring their own imagination to the drama."

Staahl says it was another Arlington grad that got him into comedy in high school, and later, after Staahl had spent many frustrating years in computer sciences at the University of Illinois, talked him into trying out for Second City: Don De Polo. (Earlier this week De Polo won a Jeff Award for his performance in "Wellsapoppin' " at Second City.)

"WE DID SHOWS together in high school. We would go to these cast parties, and we would do this stuff. He had some incredible routines prepared. I was his straight man."

Later, the two of them had an act at 'The Salt Box," a coffeehouse in Schaumburg.

"We ripped off material, but we stole from the best, the very best."

Staahl also remembers the time he missed an entrance during a high school play, and left a classmate, Lynn Broderick, stranded on stage.

"I was backstage talking to a girl I liked at the time. I taught Lynn Broderick how to improvise."

In the midst of his conversation backstage at the Ivanhoe, Jim is interrupted by a rather tall, attractive brunette walking into the dressing room. She says she met him in an English class at college and insists her name is Nancy Drew.

Staahl spends the next 45 minutes in the far corner of the dressing room, earnestly talking to Nancy Drew.

Has success changed Jim Staahl? Not a bit. He'd still rather talk with a pretty girl.

Harper to present 'Fantasticks'

Harper College Studio Theatre opens the 1977-78 season with "The Fantasticks." Performances are scheduled Nov. 4, 5, 6, 10, 12 and 13 in the television studio, Building F, on the Palatine campus. All are evening matinees at 2:30 p.m.

A special dinner-theater combination is available for the Nov. 5 date.

The "Fantasticks" cast includes: Ron Zemke and Erin Cooksley. Schaumburg; Veronica Komar and Chuck Lubeck, Mount Prospect; Bruce Weaver and Dave Gordon, Elk Grove Village; Chuck Constant, Arlington Heights; and Joel Gluck, Itasca.

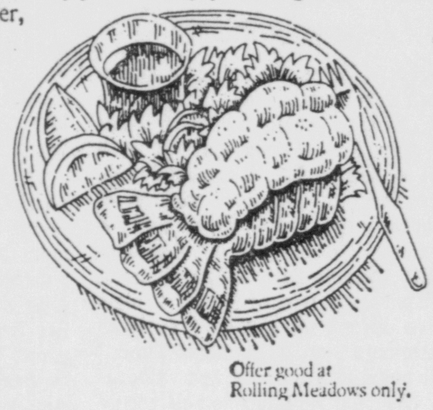

Director is Harper speech and theater instructor Mary Jo Willis; musical direction is handled by Dr. Robert Tillotson, Harper music instructor. Al Mueller, Mount Prospect, is choreographer.

Tickets are available in the student activities office, Building A, at $2 for the public and $1 for Harper students and staff. Dinner-theater tickets are $5.50 and $6.50.

Reasonable prices, large menu make Monaco good

Why one would choose to eat in the rather ordinary section of the Monaco Restaruant in Streamwood instead of in the more dramatically decorated red and black dining room behind the cocktail lounge is beyond me, because menu and prices are identical.

We choose the dining room and so did one — just one — other table of guests. Our waitress, though courteous and efficient, seemed a little miffed at having to trot back and forth from the other side where the action was.

It has been a long time since I have seen a menu when dinners, already reasonably priced, include everything: soup, salad bar, potatoes, roll and butter, vegetable upon request, coffee and dessert, and — would you believe — even a glass of wine.

Featuring:
Monaco Restaurant

THE SOUPS were lemon and French onion, both good. An ample salad bar had, in addition to the regular tossed salad with choice of four dressings, potato salad, cole slaw, kidney beans, beets, cottage cheese and marinated vegetables. A shortage of serving spoons was somewhat frustrating and the underripe state of the tomatoes disappointing.

Of the entrees chosen by our party, the veal parmesan, $4.75, made the biggest hit. Served with a heaping portion of spaghetti, the thick, tasty cut of veal was fork-tender. Next in order of enjoyment was the broiled red snapper, $4.95, quite delicious in a butter sauce.

My husband's thick roast prime rib of beef, au jus, $6.95, was good, yet not the best he's ever had. I found my filet mignon, with mushroom caps, $7.75, more than I could finish, not only because it was too large a cut but it was somewhat overdone for the "medium-rare" I ordered. Good, yes, but not as tender as that "best of cuts" can be.

ICE CREAM or rice pudding was the dessert choice included with the dinner, although other desserts, such as brandy ice, creme de menthe and creme de cocoa parfaits, pies a la mode and cheese cake, were available at extra cost.

Monaco's menu is giant-sized, with 15 dinner suggestions for the day, none higher than $7.55 (porterhouse steak); 11 entrees from the broiler; nine chef's suggestions; and 12 seafood dinners. Four specials are featured each evening.

In addition, there are several Greek specialties, such as lamb chops Athenian style, Souvlaki, Grecian style baby beef liver and Grecian broiled chicken, served with rice pilaf, choice of potato and a small Greek salad.

"WE SERVE GREEK food, like pastitsio for instance, the last of the month," said Jim Matsas, a partner in the business, along with his brother Alex and a friend, Jimmy Tzumas. He said on Friday and Saturday nights, belly dancers are featured in the lounge area, beginning at 9 p.m.

Monaco is located at 50 N. Barrington Rd. about half way between Golf and Schaumburg Roads. Though not gourmet, the food is good, the prices are reasonable, and you certainly won't go away hungry.

The 2-year-old restaurant is open 24 hours every day and offers a special businessman's luncheon daily. Reservations are unnceessary.

Sambo's can make Halloween a little less scary and a lot more fun.

We think Halloween should be safe and fun for everyone. So we're giving away "highly visible" trick-or-treat bags to all kids — 12 and under. Each bag has a list of Halloween safety tips printed right on the bag. And inside is a coupon good for one free sundae from our new kid's dessert menu.
So hurry into Sambo's today and ask for your free trick-or-treat bag. Then you'll be all set for a fun-filled Halloween.
